FUMES KILL 3 CREWMEN ON TANKER

PORT STANLEY, Ont. (CP)—Three Italian seamen were killed by fumes aboard an oil tanker early today, two of them as they tried to rescue their shipmate.

Their bodies were found by crew members wearing oxygen masks, who entered a coffer dam between two holds on the tanker East River to search for them.

Dead are boatswain Naso Antonino, about 60, chief fireman Gilberto Ciro, 45, and fireman Ederi Giuseppe, 25.

SIU DISPUTE

Ship Flees Pickets

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Canadian grain carrier J. N. McWatters moved to a more hospitable home waters Sunday after longshoremen at Superior, Wis., refused to complete the job of filling her holds.

The ship was a victim of a union protest against the Canadian government's newly imposed trusteeship over five Canadian maritime unions, including the Seafarers' International Union, a branch of the SIU of North America (AFL-CIO).

The McWatters, owned by Scott Misener Steamships Limited of Port Colborne, Ont., sailed to Port Arthur, Ont., to add another 20,000 tons of grain to the 5,000 the Superior longshoremen placed in her holds before stopping loading in sympathy with the SIU.

The SIU had picketed the McWatters at Superior after her arrival Thursday, until stopped by a temporary injunction Friday night.

The next morning, longshoremen reported for duty, but refused to continue loading what they described as a "hot ship."

CONTINUE PROTEST

In Detroit, Al Turner, vice-president of the SIU of North America, said the SIU program of picketing Canadian ships would last "indefinitely." He said the trusteeship is a "threat to free trade unionism."

In Chicago, grain handlers continued to refuse to load the John Ericsson, owned by Upper Lakes Shipping Limited of Toronto. The SIU has been engaged in a long feud with Upper Lakes since it hired Canadian Maritime Union (CLC) crews for its ships last year in place of SIU sailors.

The Ericsson, a 67-year-old ship, has been trying to get a load of grain at Chicago since early October, but grain trimmers have consistently refused to load her despite court actions, fines and threats of new and larger fines.

The SIU said to picket a second Canadian ship in Buffalo today.

A spokesman for the SIU said the union's small outboard boat would picket the Tecumseh, a Canadian ore carrier due to unload today at the Republic Steel Company.

The boat Sunday picketed another Canadian ore carrier, the Algosteel. The ship loaded 10,000 tons of ore at a Bethlehem Steel Company dock in nearby Lackawanna, however, then left the harbor.

Auto Strike Ends

OAKVILLE, Ont. (UPI)—A five-day wildcat strike at the Ford Motor Company's Oakville plant ended today.

BUFFETED AQUILO lay alongside CPR pier today with bulwarks smashed, glass broken, rigging trailing, awning collapsed and drenched in below-decks areas. Caught in a 50-m.p.h. gale off Dungeness, the 62-year-old ship gave 34 student passengers scare of their lives. Her master, Prof. J. S. Campbell, is surveying damage from foreground.

TUMBLING AND DRENCHED, the furnishings in Aquilo's saloon testify to the fury of the gale which drove the battered Aquilo back to port from Juan de Fuca Strait. Windows shattered and sea water descended on 34 terrified student passengers, many of whom were seasick.

Heavy Damage Forces Return

By PETE LOUDON

A howling gale battered a private yacht off Victoria Sunday, threatening the lives of her amateur crew and 34 University of Washington students.

The 199-ton Seattle yacht Aquilo was forced back to harbor here, her superstructure splintered, most of her passengers sick and wallowing in water that poured through her hatches.

The ship's piano was smashed, the fridge and galley range toppled.

Her forward bulwarks were smashed to matchwood, her bow canopy torn partly away.

Panes of glass were smashed. Rigging tore loose and trailed overboard. Below decks she was sodden.

Her owner and skipper, University of Washington professor and "Saturday sailor" John

Scott Campbell was taking her out again before noon.

But most of the passengers shipped out aboard the Port Angeles ferry Coho, or by air, to get back to classes.

Professor Campbell and two of his passengers, Jacques Cubille and William Flyg were interviewed.

They were coach and player respectively, of a university rugby team which came here to play weekend games with Royal Roads and University of Victoria teams.

Refrigerator Wedged Across Bow

"The piano fell over and smashed, the stove and fridge broke loose. The fridge wedged across a bow but he was so sick he didn't notice."

Most of us were sick," they said. "But everyone left the cabins and came to the upper deck."

"There were hundreds of life jackets, but no one wanted to be the first to wear one and cause a panic," they added.

Had they taken to the two small boats, they might have had difficulty. Only one of them was rigged for launching this morning. The lines were gone from the davits on the other.

Professor Campbell said:

"Solid water was coming over the bow."

"We were plunging up and down an easy 25 feet."

"The water flowed along the promenade deck a foot and a half deep."

"Tremendous masses of water were hitting the glass on the pilothouse. I am surprised they didn't shatter."

The near tragedy was a culmination of small delaying events, including the loss of a suitcase overboard, while Aquilo still lay alongside the Belleville St. CPR wharf here.

Aquilo came here Saturday. She is becoming a familiar sight here since Prof. Campbell bought her and began her restoration recently.

Dream Fulfilled for Professor

She was laid down and launched at Boston, Mass., 62 years ago, 161 feet long, 199 tons. Once owned by B. T. Rogers, the sugar king, she once made her way around the Horn. She delivered Victoria-based soldiers to Cape Lazo, near Comox, in the First World War.

The professor bought her to fulfill a dream. Being one ton less than 200, a master's papers aren't required. He patched her up with a budget so limited he couldn't afford hull insurance — premiums $3,500 a year.

Last week some of his students asked him to bring their rugby team here.

The team, coaches and a group of girls came here with the professor and his three-man crew, all non-professionals.

Sunday night they hoped to

ELEVATOR CABLES SNAP

74 Miners Survive Plunge

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI)—Two elevator cages carrying 74 men plunged out of control into the depths of a South African gold mine today. Hours later, mine officials reported that all 74 were safe and uninjured.

The cages dropped into the mine at Carletonville, 50 miles from here, when a cable snapped.

Fifty-four men trapped at the 1,000-foot level were brought to the surface. The remaining 20, at the 5,000-foot level, signalled with their flashlights that they were all right, and crews were trying to bring them up in a rescue elevator.

A white miner, who was injured on the surface when the ore carrier cable snapped and struck him, died of injuries received in the accident.

The two cages plunged down the mine shaft when ore-carrying cages on their way up failed to stop and caused the lifting cable to snap.

The downward plunge of the two cages was halted eventually by emergency gear—the upper one stopped at 1,000 feet and the lower at 5,000 feet.

BROISTEDT, Germany (AP)

—Three West German miners trapped for more than 80 hours in a flooded iron ore mine cheerfully reported today they are fit and well.

The miners reported to the surface through a communication shaft bored 259 feet down to the air pocket in which they were enclosed by water.

It will be at least Wednesday before a second shaft, wide enough to bring them up, can be completed, rescue officials said.

Forty other miners have been given up for lost. Another 79 escaped within three hours of the accident and seven others were brought out later.

TOO MANY GIRLS

Mr. Winterbottom

Just Kept Running

CLIFTON, England (AP)—An American male has disappeared from a beautician's course he was taking with 21 girls, officials at the Henlow Grange Beauty Farm reported today.

He is Russell Winterbottom, 37, from Santa Barbara, Calif.

"Mr. Winterbottom is a very shy man," said an official.

Winterbottom joined the course five weeks ago and paid 150 guineas ($472) for a year's tuition. He disappeared Oct. 17 after setting off for a run in a track suit.

Officials at the farm said they became worried and notified police, who are searching for the American with tracker dogs. Winterbottom left all his possessions, including an automobile, his suits and shirts, his passport, a cheque book and some loose change.

"We are completely baffled," said an official. "Mr. Winterbottom was getting on very well. He said he wanted to train to be a top-class beautician."

The farm is run by Mrs. Leida Costigan, an Estonian-born beauty specialist. Millionaires, aristocrats and show business stars are among her clients. Winterbottom was not the first male student to sign on for a course.

Guests at the health farm pay up to £50 ($150) a week for treatment, which includes Turkish baths, diet, manicures and massage. Male clients lounge in Roman togas on sun porches sipping fruit juice.

China Admits Still Long Way Off From Testing First Atomic Bomb

TOKYO (AP)—Red China's Foreign Minister Chen Yi was quoted today as saying it will be "several years" before his country can test an atomic bomb.

Kyodo news service said the Chinese vice premier made this statement in Peking to visiting Japanese newspaper men.

Chen was reported to have said that the delay in testing was due to the backward state of China's industrial base and that it will be some time before it can mass produce atomic weapons.

But he emphasized the Chinese Communist government has every intention of acquiring nuclear power, because without it China would remain a second or third-class nation.

He said China is close to resolution of the problems of atomic weapon production.

China's objective is, he added, to be equipped with atom bombs, missiles and super-sonic weapons "within a few years."

He noted that the Russians had taunted China on wanting to produce expensive nuclear weapons when it didn't have enough trousers to go round.

Chen added that even if China had to go without trousers, it must have modern weapons.

Nikita Quits But U.S. Still Aiming at Moon

WASHINGTON (AP)—It's full speed ahead for the U.S. program to land a man on the moon in this decade.

That's the way American space officials greeted the news from Moscow that Soviet Premier Khrushchev apparently has pulled his country out of any moon race.

Senator Clinton P. Anderson, chairman of the Senate space committee, agreed. "First of all, I do not believe we should develop our space programs on the basis of the press statements of Mr. Khrushchev," the New Mexico Democrat told The Associated Press.

However, there were signs elsewhere that the Russian leader's move may provide ammunition for American critics of heavy space spending.

In an interview Saturday night in Moscow with touring journalists, Khrushchev declared:

"At present we are not planning manned moon flights. I have read a report to the effect that the Americans want to land a man on the moon by 1970. Well, I wish them success. And we shall watch how they fly there, how they come to earth, or rather come to moon, and this is the main

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

City Hall's decision to extend and pave Rose Street has paid off in convenience for motorists. But the other side of the coin is an increased danger to pedestrians and particularly school children.

With hundreds of students trooping in the mornings along Rose Street to S. J. Willis Junior High School—and all of them crossing it in a mass at the end of a school day—it's time counsel put in a sidewalk.

At present, teen-agers and moving cars are all mixed up on the paved roadway—and it may not be too long before one of the youngsters is hit.

The Salvation Army rises to all occasions. When a baby started crying at their symphonic festival of praise in Victoria High School auditorium Saturday night, one of the lassies in blue promptly took charge of the infant so the parents could enjoy the concert.

Apparently soothed by these attentions, the baby ceased crying and was seen chortling happily through the remainder of the program.

Prize for nonchalant revelation of fact should go to a recent police court witness who was being asked by lawyer John McIntosh about his car.

The dialogue went like this:
Lawyer: "What kind of car do you drive?"
Witness: "Bristol."

Lawyer: "How many such cars are there in Canada—in round figures?"
Witness: "About two."

Soot is like sin. No matter what reforms are taken it keeps on reappearing.

Mrs. Hazel Hodson, moderator of a panel discussion on amalgamation at a meeting of the Association of Women Electors, made the remark: "Even King Henry I enforced soot control in the 1300s."

And at conclusion of the meeting when most women were wondering just how GREAT Victoria is, Miss Jean Cornell reminded members of an occasion when the Queen Mother wondered the same thing.

Miss Cornell was in England attending a teachers' convention when she met the Queen Mother. Everyone was wearing a name tag which read Miss Mary Smith, Winnipeg; Miss Jane Smith, Montreal, and then Miss Cornell came along with her name, followed by Greater Victoria.

An advertisement for an Island hootenanny names a Campbell River group as having made several recent appearances at the Scene in Victoria.

Those of us who witnessed the Scene's sticky end some years ago can get a quiet chuckle out of that.

It's no secret that the Scene's successor is "The Secret."

Frank Anders, who organized the famous Tin Hats concert parties overseas with the Canadian army, has returned to his home at 217 Cook Street after a lengthy spell in the Veterans' Hospital.

Before entering hospital, Frank did fine work as entertainments officer to Victoria Silver Threads centre.

Last week's violent storms brought some rarely seen oceanic birds to the protected waters of the Saanich Peninsula. Most people may have missed them, but not Victoria bird watchers.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Davidson, 825 Monterey, reported seeing the fork-tailed and Leach's petrels. They are better known to sailors as Mother Carey's chickens and their appearance is said to presage a storm.

They also spotted Fulmars, a large bird of gull-like coloration, which is seen far out to sea.

On another occasion they saw a Sabine gull, one of the most beautiful of the gulls, but seldom seen by most Canadians because it inhabits the Arctic.

clear harbor by 7. Two students were tardy. Another dropped his suitcase overboard. The delays worried the skipper, but by 8, they got away. "We left in moderate weather, maximum winds of 20 mph forecast. But off Dungeness we hit a 50 mph steady blow. We had to turn and come back," said the professor. "We turned with the wind. There were a couple of bad rolls but the turn was quick," he said.

Played Engines Against Storm

The students said the engines stopped during the turn. The professor said he had to play the engines against the storm. (When the nose dips and the screws are clear of the water, they must be slowed to reduce racing and vibration which could be harmful).

The professor said he was in radio contact with the U.S. Coast Guard.

"We told them we didn't need help, that we were turning back. We called them again when we were entering harbor."

Coast Guard officials here (Canadian) and at Port Angeles and Seattle (U.S.) all said they received no signals from Aquilo.

Professor Campbell and his Japanese Akita dog ("The dog is a Ph.D. too—pilot house dog, prowled the wreckage this morning.

"We're going to fix it all up. The railing was in poor condition anyway. We'll fix it up," said the professor.

Digs Sought For 250 QOR Families

Living quarters are wanted in Victoria for 250 families of the 1st Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles of Canada, who will be arriving here soon.

Sgt. Fred Beurkens, who has the job of finding this accommodation, would like to hear from anyone with houses or apartments to rent.

His number is EV 5-1371. Local 381, and he is there from 8 to noon and 1 to 4:30 p.m.

MORE MARRIED

Dutch-born Sgt. Beurkens reveals there are more married men in the Queen's Own Rifles than in the 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, which they are replacing at Work Point.

Starting Nov. 1, about 100 QOR personnel will leave Düsseldorf, Germany, every few days until 1,800 men, wives and children have been returned to Canada.

The same planes will carry PPCLI personnel to Germany. "Most of our men will go on leave when they get back to Canada," Sgt. Beurkens said. "It will probably be around Christmas before we are in full strength at Work Point."

thing, how they take off and return home.

The reaction in Washington was varied.

James E. Webb, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said Khrushchev's statement "could have the effect of strengthening this country's desire to go ahead with the moon program."

Dr. George E. Mueller, director of NASA's manned, space-flight programs, said the American moon effort should continue independent of any action Russia might take.

Edward C. Welsh, executive secretary of the National Aeronautics and Space Council, said the Russians "have sensed some slackening of support for the moon program here and have made a strategic move to capitalize on this situation." The council is a top administration advisory group.

President Kennedy in 1961 set as a national goal the landing of a man on the moon in this decade, hopefully before the Russians do. The cost has been estimated at $200,000,000 or more.

Noting that such diverse leaders as Nobel Prize winner Linus Pauling and former president Eisenhower have questioned the wisdom of moon spending on the scale now projected, Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said he expected congressional advocates of reduced spending to step up their arguments on the basis of Khrushchev's remarks.

Moroccan Troops Nearing Algerian Iron Centre

By ANDREW BOROWIEC

MARRAKECH, Morocco (AP)

The Moroccan government announced today that its troops are seven miles from the iron ore centre of Tindouf in the Algerian-controlled Sahara.

The announcement by Information Minister Abdel Hadi Boutaleb indicated the Moroccan troops have penetrated deep into the territory contested by the two countries. According to most international maps, Tindouf is 60 miles inside the Algerian Sahara.

"Our troops are not pushing on," Boutaleb said. "All I can tell you is that they are there."

Asked whether the Moroccans were launching an offensive to seize Tindouf on the eve of four-power talks at Bamako, Mali, Boutaleb replied:

"We have no intention of taking Tindouf by arms but by negotiations."

LEADERS TO MEET

Morocco's King Hassan II and Algerian President Ahmed Ben Bella are scheduled to meet Tuesday in Bamako in an effort to settle the border dispute.

The leaders of the warring North African neighbors will be joined in Bamako, the Mali capital, by Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia and President Modiba Keita of Mali in the four-power conference to seek an end to the fighting.

The attitudes of both sides left little hope for a quick settlement. Ben Bella was expected to demand unconditional withdrawal of the Moroccans from the disputed frontier. Moroccan officials said there would be no yielding of land the kingdom considers part of its national heritage.

Moroccan infantry units Sunday chased the remnants of three Algerian battalions from Hassi Beida, a muddy water hole clustered by palm trees north of the ore-rich Tindouf Valley. Two U.S. television teams at the front confirmed the Moroccan victory.

Algeria was bolstered by a shipment of Soviet-made arms from Cuba and the imminent arrival of an Egyptian paratrooper unit withdrawn from Yemen by Ben Bella's ally, President Nasser of the United Arab Republic.

Forty Soviet medium tanks and some crated MIG jet fighters already have arrived in Algeria aboard a Cuban ship, Western diplomatic sources said. More Soviet tanks and planes are expected. Three Egyptian ships are en route to the Algerian port of Oran.

Observers questioned whether the arms, apparently ordered six months ago, could be put to use immediately in the conflict in view of Algeria's shortage of trained manpower.

But the threat of foreign involvement in the dispute troubled U.S. officials. U.S. Ambassador William J. Porter conferred with Ben Bella Saturday and warned him of the danger of internationalizing the war.

TWO BROTHERS KILLED WHEN DIRT COLLAPSES

EDMONTON (CP) — Two young brothers were killed Saturday when they were buried by a falling 10-foot-high wall of dirt in the Edmonton suburb of Sherwood Park.

Sons of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Slind of Sherwood Park, the boys were Eric, 8, and Douglas, 6.

Police said the boys were playing with eight-year-old Douglas Robert Hilliker on top of a large mound of dirt. One section gave way, burying the brothers. The Hilliker boy received only minor injuries.

Workmen across the street saw the accident and immediately dug out the boys, but both were dead. Earlier reports were that the boys had suffocated but coroner Dr. T. H. Brooks said they were killed instantly. He has called an inquest.

Review 'Out' For Petersen

The case of a discharged Victoria seaman is unlikely to be reviewed by the new board on national security risks, it was learned in Ottawa today.

The Victoria man, PO Eric Clifford Petersen, was discharged from the Royal Canadian Navy on the ground that his father-in-law had been a member of the Communist party in depression days.

Victoria lawyer Lloyd McKenzie, QC, who protested the discharge earlier this year, said Saturday he hoped the Victoria seaman's case would be the first to be reviewed by the new board.

But a senior official in Ottawa said today the new procedures for reviewing cases in which members of the armed forces or federal employees are branded as security risks is not intended to operate retroactively.

NOT FIRM

The official added that this is not a firm ruling and, if there were "mitigating circumstances," the board of review might be asked to take up a case recently handled.

"But it is not the intention to have the board operate retroactively. Where would we draw the line if such were the case? How far back would we go?"

In Victoria, Mr. McKenzie said the creation of the board is a "vast improvement" over the previous situation in which a person could be accused, dismissed from government service and have no appeal.

Officials in Ottawa said the new board of review does not operate in immigration or naturalization cases.

THEY'LL BE TOLD

Prime Minister Lester Pearson announced in the Commons Friday that in future members of the forces or federal employees who had been named as security risks would be told of the accusations against them.

They would be given a chance to tell their side of the story to a secret board of review, he said.

Youth Drowns in Lake Companion Survives

PENTICTON (CP) — A 20-year-old youth was drowned Sunday while his companion struggled through ice and rugged country for help.

Dead is Rod Cousins who slipped beneath the surface of Penrask Lake while companion John Nesbitt was seeking help.

U.K. Skipper Fined

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (Reuters) — Capt. Dennis Pougher of the 538-ton British trawler Peter Cheyney Sunday was fined 300,000 kronur about $7,000 for fishing inside Icelandic waters. Pougher, who admitted the charge, told the court at Isafjordur, northwest Iceland, his radar broke down and he was unable to measure the distance to the coast.

RCMP S-Sgt. E. H. R. Nesbitt said his son told this story.

The pair were fishing on the lake when it started to get rough. Their boat's outboard motor conked out then the boat capsized. Neither had lifebelts. John, a strong swimmer, attempted to keep the weaker Cousins on the overturned boat but realized he would have to get help.

He shed his heavy clothing and swam to the ice-rimmed shoreline where he collapsed and lay there for about two hours.

He hobbled and crawled to Penrask Lodge where the caretaker called police. What clothing he was wearing was torn to shreds.

S-Sgt. Nesbitt headed a party that was searching for Cousins' body today.

Fourth E. German Sailor Jumps Ship in St. John's

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — A fourth East German seaman has jumped his ship in port here to ask for political asylum, it was learned today.

The young man, whose identity was not available, left the East German factory fishing ship Weimar today and asked for asylum.

He joins Hans Dost, 19, Erica Auch, 39, and Wolfgang Raedel, 19, all of whom have left the factory ship Bertolt Brecht in the last few days.

Miss Auch, an assistant cook on the ship, left Saturday night and has been transferred to immigration department offices in Halifax, officials here said today.

Also in Halifax is Dost who was taken off the Brecht Thursday by the RCMP after his attempt to seek asylum Oct. 21 failed when other four crew members dragged him back aboard his ship.

Raedel, identified today by immigration officials, is still in custody here. He walked into a city police station Sunday night to ask for asylum.

Miss Auch and Dost want asylum in Canada. Raedel is seeking asylum in West Germany and he, too will probably be transferred to Halifax in the next day or two to await a decision on his application.

The Brecht, in port for engine repairs, is scheduled to sail today or Tuesday. The Weimar was making a routine call for provisions.

Opium Seized on Ship, 16 Crewmen Arrested

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Federal agents swooped down on the Norwegian freighter Hoegh Dene Sunday and seized 18 pounds of smuggled opium estimated to be worth from $50,000 to $500,000.

Sixteen of the ship's 38-man Chinese crew were arrested, along with Ng Poy, an 80-year-old resident of San Francisco's Chinatown. Customs officials charged him with receiving the drug in his apartment.

An informer had told the agents the ship carried a large supply of opium, and they kept it under watch from its arrival Saturday.

They reported apparent decoys trying to fool them left the ship Saturday night. Shortly after noon Sunday they said the followed several crewmen to Poy's apartment.

Each man was carrying a small amount of opium, and the rest was found on the ship, agents said. Poy was to pay $100 a pound for the drug, they added.

The Norwegian officers of the ship told agents they knew nothing of the smuggling. The ship, owned by the Trans-Pacific Transportation Company, arrived via Los Angeles and Manila.

S.A. Builds Rockets

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) — South Africa plans to set up a rocket institute near Pretoria to develop a ground-to-air guided missile, it was announced Sunday. Professor L. J. Le Roux, vice-president of the Council for Scientific and Industrial Research, said "the republic has been forced by events in Africa to enter the missile field".

PLAN TALKS WITH BUDDHISTS

UN Probers Cut Diem's Reins

SAIGON (AP) — The UN mission to South Viet Nam discarded its restricted government itinerary today in an attempt to counter the Diem regime's efforts to keep opposition Buddhists from the fact-finders.

The UN team announced it would decide for itself who it will see in its investigation of Buddhist charges of government persecution.

Since its arrival last Thursday, the UN mission has been briefed by President Ngo Dinh Diem and his powerful brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu, and pro-government Buddhist leaders. The government schedule has given the UN investigators almost no opportunity to talk with opposition Buddhists or any opposition political group.

The diplomats decided to break from the tour-like schedule arranged by the government just as another Buddhist monk burned himself to death in front of the Roman Catholic cathedral Sunday. It was the seventh Buddhist suicide by fire since June, and it was carried out to dramatize the Buddhist charges during the visit by the UN team.

Catching government police off guard, the monk arrived by motorcycle, poured gasoline on himself and lit a match. A crowd of about 100 persons gathered around the flaming figure. Some prostrated themselves and recited Buddhist prayers, while others blocked police trying to extinguish the flames.

As the fire enveloped him, the monk bowed and raised his arms in prayer. He was dead in three minutes.

Buddhist sources predicted more suicides to protest what they called repressions by the government.

Copies of a letter purportedly written by the monk circulated in Saigon. It said the "Catholic government" was trying to wipe out Buddhism.

The letter called on Diem to release all imprisoned Buddhist religious leaders and laymen and to end its campaign of terror.

James Robinson, a National Broadcasting Company correspondent, said he was grabbed by police while he was filming the suicide with NBC cameraman Andrew Pearson. Robinson wrenched free and hopped into a black government limousine which had just pulled opposite him. It carried him and another Western reporter to safety.

Inside were a high government official and a woman, Robinson said. They were "crying in sympathy with the monk," he said. The official was not identified.

Three American newspapermen, including two NBC men, were beaten by police at the last suicide by a monk after they refused to surrender films of the death.

National and Local

AN AGONIZING DECISION IS required when the interests of the nation's defence and the national economy clash with the maintenance of employment in the armaments industry. But there can be only one proper answer: the nation's defences must come first.

The country's security cannot be made primarily a means to provide work; it would be madness to spend public funds in building ships, planes, guns or equipment which were not suitable or would rapidly become obsolete—as the Royal Navy made clear when it scrapped its battle wagons ten years ago.

Defence Minister Hellyer was therefore acting on sound principles when, on the advice of his defence authorities, he cancelled plans to build eight frigates at a cost of $452 millions. As he explained to Parliament, the cost of the proposed ships had soared far beyond original estimates and would likely go higher. For a country carrying an annual deficit of up to $700 millions and an enormous national debt, cost must be a strong consideration.

But to this factor, Mr. Hellyer added other drawbacks inherent in the nature of the frigates themselves. Designed to fulfil a number of functions—carrying troops and equipment, detecting and attacking submarines, providing air protection, and so on—the general purpose frigate would necessarily be restricted in performing any one of them. With its capabilities spread over a number of functions, it could not be as efficient in any one of them as some other form of specialized weapon could be.

These considerations, plus the fact that important changes in missile systems may be expected, persuaded Mr. Hellyer to call a halt to the proposed costly program.

This, of course, is not the whole picture. Although the first keel for the frigates was not to be laid until December of next year, the program had already become a major factor in the shipyards' planning. They do not have any less work than if the plan had never been suggested, but lack of such contracts must carry the threat of unemployment and loss of payrolls. And with unemployment in this highly technical industry comes the dispersal of skilled work teams and the possible loss of highly trained specialists.

The problem, therefore, is not to distort the vital defence program into providing unprofitable work, or burden the nation's sagging treasury with ill-advised expenditures, but to devise other forms of construction, other products, with which to maintain the industry and its employees.

This is a particularly important matter for Greater Victoria, where the shipyards payroll is a major item in our economy. Some naval work, some department of transport contracts, may be expected. But it is unrealistic to depend too heavily on the federal government to maintain a constantly high rate of employment in a field where defence requirements and technological progress are in a state of rapid change and rapidly increasing cost. The industry must exploit and develop other avenues to the full.

Separating the Separatists

ALL THE SOUND AND FURY of demands for separatism heard from the province of Quebec come from a mere 13 per cent of the population, according to a survey by the highly-respected Groupe de Recherche Sociale, a non-profit group of social scientists from McGill and Montreal universities.

Against this 13 per cent who favor the immediate political separation of Quebec from the rest of Canada (and 8 per cent of these favor a coup d'état) is a solid 43 per cent strongly opposed to separatism.

The survey's sampling was conducted among 1,000 French Canadians, considered a large and representative sampling in this sort of poll, and it found that 23 per cent of the population was undecided about the issue. Even more astonishing, considering the amount of publicity the separatists have achieved, 21 per cent of the people said they had never heard of the separatist movement.

In the group's survey the fanatical fringe elements of the separatist movement such as the FLQ terrorists do not even show up. This is such a small number of people, estimated at not more than two or three dozen in the whole province, that they have significance only as a threat to public safety and an embarrassment to the respectable separatists.

Two of the social scientists in charge of the survey had some interesting comments to make when they appeared recently on a CBC television program. For one thing, they maintained, the opposition to separatism is "crystallizing" much more rapidly than support for it. For another, the separatist movement is led by, and almost entirely confined to, the "upper middle-class, cultural elite" of the province and, in this group, finds its major support among younger people in such occupations as journalism, teaching and the civil service.

Another comment deserving of notice was that the separatists themselves tended greatly to overestimate their strength, a common failing among intellectuals involved in the dissemination of radical ideas.

If the group's figures are reliable, and it has established an enviable record for correctly forecasting opinion trends in Quebec, it would seem that separatism is not nearly the driving force in Canadian affairs that people outside French Canada have come to believe.

This should not, however, lead to complacency, to an easy feeling that there are no problems. There have been clashes over the place of the French language and culture in Canada and there will be more if the non-French population attempts simply to shelve the matter. The Quebec separatists, a relatively small and static element though they may be, have served a useful purpose in bringing more dramatically to the notice of Canadians as a whole that there are areas of discontent which need to be examined.

Living Dangerously

CANADIANS WILL SMOKE more cigarettes in 1963 than in any other year, according to the tobacco industry. Several industry spokesmen say they are unable to explain the increase in consumption.

One obvious point is that the fear of lung cancer, so widely publicized in recent years, has not cut into cigarette sales to the extent which had been generally expected by many people—and feared by the tobacco industry. Certainly it has not cancelled out the increase in the population which normally would lead to an increase in Canadian cigarette sales.

On the other hand, the fact that filtered cigarettes have taken over the major share of the market indicates that the smoking public is aware of a link between cigarettes and lung cancer.

As a result of the increase in cigarette sales, the tobacco industry in both Canada and the United States is reportedly awaiting with equanimity the publication of the so-called "Terry Report"—the findings of 10 respected scientists working under the direction of United States Surgeon General Luther L. Terry on problems of smoking and health.

The report is expected to be published shortly after the New Year and the American Medical Association has promised to deliver a judgment on smoking based on the report.

No Time for Crime

"A FEW DAYS AGO," WRITES Mr. John Allan May from Britain's capital, "a leading London restaurateur was arrested by two detectives while presiding at a company board meeting and taken to Saville Row police station for failing to pay the 10 shilling surcharge for overparking (by his chauffeur) at a meter."

"Ironically," reports Mr. May,

"this businessman's premises have been burgled 12 times in six months. No arrests have been made as a result. The police have told him they do not have enough men to solve the cases."

"No comment is needed. The public image of the police, created by enforcement of penalties for parking violations, is as obvious in London as in many other parts of the world."

By MAURICE WESTERN

Skepticism About 'Mild Shove'

MR. WALTER GORDON, in moving second reading of the bill which embraces important amendments relating to the rates of withholding taxes, offered the odd comment: "There seems to be general agreement on this."

There is certainly general agreement that Mr. Gordon is attempting to grapple with a very difficult problem. It is the view of all parties that Canada, confronted with chronic balance of payment difficulties, must seek to expand her exports into North American markets. It is also the consensus that this task is complicated by the fact that so many of our manufacturing industries are subsidiaries of United States concerns.

Western

Profits First

As the minister of finance argued: "Understandably the top officials of the parent company set their sights on increasing the volume of business and the profits of the total enterprise. It would be unreasonable to expect them to give the special requirements of the Canadian economy undue priority."

"It would be unreasonable to expect officials of a parent company, for example, to encourage their Canadian subsidiary to compete with its parent in the parent company's home markets or in other countries in which the parent company is interested, unless there were clear price and profit advantages in so doing."

But this is not to say that there is agreement with Mr. Gordon's approach to the problem. One might, indeed, gather from the paucity of references to the subject in Hansard that there is less concern about the proposed tax changes in Parliament than there appears to be in the business community.

The fact is, however, that the pressures of larger controversies—matters of more direct concern to people in the constituencies—have up to the present effectively diverted attention from Mr. Gordon's ingenious experiment.

Even so, there is evidence that it is regarded with considerable skepticism and that this feeling is by no means confined to the opposition parties. Mr. Gordon faces the initial problem of persuading Parliament that the scheme is workable.

The minister's thought is that firms controlled abroad should be induced, preferably by 1965, to make it possible for Canadians to acquire a 25 per cent minority interest. To this end he proposes to use a carrot and a stick although he avoids the latter term by employing such euphemisms as "gentle pressure" and a "mild push." Firms qualifying will enjoy henceforth a 10 per cent, instead of a 15 per cent rate of non-resident withholding tax. Firms which cling to their old dog-in-the-manger habits will find that the tax has risen to 20 per cent.

How will Mr. Gordon satisfy himself that a particular firm is a good, honest 25 per cent Canadian? What presumably counts is effective and not merely nominal share ownership; not on any specific day of tax qualification but for 365 days in the year. But shares are easily traded and the suspicion is widespread that the minister has minimized the difficulty of establishing ownership.

It is possible that Mr. Gordon has an answer to these objections. He must still persuade critics that a redistribution of shares will accomplish very much. The magic 25 per cent may consist in large part of small shareholders with very little influence on day to day company policy. In any case decisions at the top are likely to be taken according to straight business considerations which will probably not include the matters that prey so much on the minds of ministers of finance.

Wishful Thinking

Mr. Gordon's own words on this point suggest that he has been guided in his policy by wishful thinking. He said on October 16:

"It is significant, I think, that people who are connected with partially owned Canadian subsidiaries generally consider that having minority shareholding interests is a good thing for Canada. The managers of these companies usually have more autonomy and apart from that they must keep in mind the best interests of all their shareholders and not just the largest one."

"In such cases the Canadian partially owned subsidiary is more likely to be allowed to do things that are in the best interests of our country. This is not always true but I think it is a reasonably valid generalization."

Would the minister expect people connected with such subsidiaries to take a low view of the behaviour of their companies? One would suspect that they, of all people, would be most disposed to believe that a small Canadian firm can wag a large American dog.

Other Objections

There are other important objections to the Gordon policy. It is, in effect, a new restriction on the movement of foreign capital although we have profited greatly from such capital in the past and will no doubt be dependent on it for many years to come. It is a restriction which invites retaliation.

When Mr. Fleming in 1960 introduced changes which had the effect of increasing the rate from 5 to 15 per cent, the United States promptly followed suit. Unless Mr. Gordon can persuade the Americans to overlook the gentle pressures and mild shoves, it is likely that Canadian companies operating in the United States will become liable under the U.S. internal revenue code for a withholding tax of 30 per cent.

If Mr. Gordon's tax is workable, it may or may not have a salutary effect on the behaviour of Canadian subsidiaries of U.S. firms. The chances are that, for various reasons, the effect will be minimal. On the other hand, it seems altogether probable that a 30 per cent U.S. tax would have startling effects on the behaviour of Canadian firms operating in the United States. This, presumably, is the last thing that the government would desire.

Mr. Drury's recent experience with Mr. Luther Hodges in conversations about the automobile industry does not suggest that the Americans can be counted upon to ignore gentle pressures affecting their pocket books. As the policy sponsored by the minister of finance seems to start with a hope and end with a gamble, it would be surprising if the amendment dealing with the withholding tax escapes critical scrutiny in Parliament.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Let Ferries Subsidize Buses

It is an antiquated idea that because the B.C. Electric Company originally held the franchise and owned the buses that gas and electricity revenues should still subsidize transit losses.

Premier Bennett's ferries, admittedly making millions, should today absorb the bus transit losses. It is all public transportation owned and operated by the one firm, the provincial government, so there is no need for the buses to be turned over to the civic authorities at some future date as a white elephant, or any need at present for another increase in fares. Mr. Bennett cannot expect all

To Ease Traffic Problem

Here is a suggestion looking towards a solution, or at least an easing, of Victoria's traffic problems.

Instead of charging the bus system a large sum annually, based upon the number of passengers carried, would it not be better for the city to subsidize the system so that it could provide a more efficient and faster service; and thus encourage rather than discourage its use?

Many motorists might then, with better schedules, prefer to leave their cars at home and the public would have better access to the city centre.

Milk With Cream

Users of the Victoria bus service, like the writer, must have been intrigued by your headline in Friday's paper, "Buses Coming Back."

To citizens generally, public transportation is a necessity. As we all know, operation of the bus system was an obligation of the B.C. Electric, now in the hands of the B.C. Government as the B.C. Hydro. The former owners were obligated by reason of the franchise they held to provide public transportation. They did this at a loss; but were able to subsidize it from power and light revenues.

Why should not the B.C. Hydro do the same? If they take the cream they should take the skim milk as well.

Mayor Rathie of Vancouver, has come out bluntly against the city taking over the bus system and fears that it would be a raw deal. If and when negotiations by B.C. Hydro do take place, it is to be hoped that Victoria and Vancouver will take a firm stand to see that the bus passenger gets a square deal. It is not too early for the bus riding public to take this matter under consideration.

PANIC SLAUGHTER

No Fodder For Cattle

By VICTOR ZORZA, from London

REPORTS in Soviet papers that farmers were slaughtering cattle for lack of fodder give to the Soviet food situation the air of panic which Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev has tried to prevent by his purchase of foreign grain supplies.

The unauthorized slaughter of cattle is a traditional danger signal in the Russian countryside. It has accompanied every agricultural crisis since the revolution, through the great famine and collectivization in the thirties, to the post-war disasters under Stalin.

An account in Sovetskaya Rossiya pictured lines of trucks filled with cattle waiting in front of slaughter houses in the Kursk area. The trucks had come from collective farms "trying to get rid of the cattle," said the paper.

It quoted farmers as saying: "We have no fodder for the cattle" or, more emphatically, "We do not have a single potato to feed the pigs."

The paper confessed that "serious apprehension" was caused by farmers who were sending cattle to slaughter houses prematurely, even though they had enough fodder.

First Indications

The first indications of food shortages in Russia a few weeks ago began with reports of farmers buying up bread to feed to cattle.

With the new shortage of potatoes, Russia's food difficulties are assuming the form of a downward vicious spiral, with cause and effect chasing each other to bring about further shortages even as the Soviet Union is paying out huge amounts of gold to stave off a crisis.

In one sense the trouble can be said to have begun with the very cattle that are now being slaughtered. In the middle of last year Khrushchev, painfully aware that his repeated promises of plenty had failed to materialize, sought to harness a good old capitalist principle to his political bandwagon by decreeing a considerable increase in the prices to be paid to the farms for milk and meat.

The selling prices in the shops were also raised, but the grumbling of the industrial population was at least partly assuaged by the promise that over the longer term the new policy would bring more meat to the market.

The farms responded very handsomely, so much so that the cattle population explosion also burned up considerable amounts of grain and feeding stuff much faster than they were being produced. It is estimated that the additional requirements of grain may amount to something like five million tons.

Short of Target

To this must be added the disappointments of this year's harvest, whose marketable grain target had originally been set at 65.5 million tons, was then raised to a minimum of 69 million tons, and a possible maximum of 74 million tons, and is now put by Soviet sources at something like 45.6 million tons. This is not only disastrously short of the various earlier targets but also 19 million tons less than was procured last year.

Soviet grain purchases abroad before the end of September amounted to more than nine million tons, but it is clear that the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe, where the shortages are also being felt, could do with much greater imports.

The drain of up to a billion dollars on Soviet bloc gold and foreign exchange reserves can hardly fail to affect Russia's purchases of manufactured goods abroad.

Foreign traders in Moscow are finding it harder than usual to get the Russians to commit themselves to contracts. Although delays in the negotiation of contracts at this time of the year are customary, while Soviet planners put together the production and trade plans for next year, there are some indications that the present delays may be due to a government decision to cut down other than the most essential purchases abroad.

Never Enough

In the meantime the cows and pigs and bullocks whose appetites started it all are beginning to be killed off before the extra feeding stuff procured by the government has a chance of reaching them, presumably because the canny Russian peasant knows from long and bitter experience that there will never be enough, and that it is better to slaughter the cattle while there is still meat on them, rather than wait until they starve to death.

The report in Izvestia that the first shipload of Canadian wheat had been unloaded in Odessa late last week, and that two more ships are expected in the next few days, is clearly intended to stop both the hoarding of food and the slaughter of cattle. The Soviet press does not usually carry reports of this kind.

Whether the peasants will take the hint, however, is, as they say in Odessa, another pair of galoshes.

Polycythemia

"Poly" means many; the root "cyte" means cell; and "hemia" means blood, so polycythemia is a disease in which in one cubic millimeter of blood there are perhaps six or seven or even ten million red cells instead of the normal five million. The question is, "Why did so many extra cells come into the blood?" In Peru anyone who has to live in the mining town of Cerro de Pasco, which is at an altitude of some 15,000 feet above sea level, will develop polycythemia. He needs extra red blood cells to carry more oxygen from the thin air coming into his lungs at that altitude to the tissues of his body. In these cases it is a compensatory mechanism, and a needed one. In most of the cases of mild polycythemia that I have seen, the patient began as an asthmatic, or a victim of emphysema (with dilated lung sacs). Like the men of Cerro de Pasco, these persons needed more red blood cells to carry enough oxygen from their poorly functioning lungs to their body cells.

One form of polycythemia is known as erythremia, or Vaquez's or Osler's disease, or rubra vera. The cause is not known. The patient may have a reddened skin, due to the excess of hemoglobin (red blood pigment) in his arteries. He has also more than the usual volume of blood in his body, and this blood tends to be thick and sticky. Usually he has a large spleen (on the left side of his abdomen).

Another type of polycythemia is known as Ayerza's Syndrome, and another type is found with congenital heart defects. Some forms of the disease resemble leukemia in that they are due to an abnormal activity in the bone marrow. This causes the marrow to make too many red cells — sometimes as many as 13,000,000.

The symptoms of a definite polycythemia are likely to be headache, dizziness, ringing in the ears, visual disturbances, shortness of breath, a sensation of fatigue, a weakness, bleeding from various parts of the body, perhaps distress in the abdomen due to a large spleen, and perhaps swelling and pain in the legs. Sometimes an experienced physician will make the diagnosis from a glance at the man's red face. The liver is often enlarged.

When the patient is much distressed, the logical treatment is to bleed him, perhaps twice a week, taking away each time at least a pint of blood. After the man's blood has thus been thinned down, he is likely to feel much better. Sometimes many of the blood cells can be destroyed by injecting into the vessels radio-active phosphorus. Fortunately, from time to time, the disease may let up by itself, and remain dormant for six months or a year.

According to a recent article by Dr. Richard C. Webster, one in 1,000 babies is born with a cleft palate or cleft lip. All such infants must be operated on. A child with a cleft down the middle of his palate cannot suck, and so he has trouble taking his milk. Food taken into his mouth tends to escape up through his nose.

The operation to repair the cleft must be followed up by work by an orthodontist, and perhaps an oral surgeon and perhaps by an ear, nose and throat doctor, a pediatrician, a speech therapist, a psychologist, and in some cases, a psychiatrist.

SUKARNO PERFORATED IN EFFIGY

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP)—Malaysian aborigines perforated an effigy of Indonesian President Sukarno with blow pipes Sunday and then, with shouts of laughter, set it alight.

Mystery Broadcast Fights Home

GLASGOW (Reuters)—A "pirate" radio station calling itself Radio Free Scotland commandeered the BBC's television sound wave-length Saturday night to make a propaganda broadcast about the election which Prime Minister Alec Douglas-Home is contesting.

An anonymous male announcer, who came on the air after the BBC's transmissions had ended for the evening, gave a five-minute commentary in favor of the Scottish Nationalist Party candidate, Arthur Donaldson, who will oppose Douglas-Home in the Kinross West Perthshire by-election, Nov. 7.

The broadcaster alleged that the two main British political parties were keeping the Scottish Nationalist Party off the air and added: "This is obviously undemocratic and unfair, to put it mildly."

He asked voters in the constituency—where the Conservative candidate had a majority in the 1959 general election whether they thought the ruling Conservatives and Labor party had acted fairly.

Radio Free Scotland has been operating a mobile station in the Glasgow and Edinburgh areas for some time.

West Indies Presses For Canadian Help

FREDERICTON (CP)—Criticism and suggestions regarding Canada's policies in relations to the West Indies were heard here Saturday night from Prime Minister Errol Barrow of Barbados.

Winding up the public sessions of a conference on the West Indies, he said "the Canadian government has failed miserably to recognize that we are partners in the Commonwealth."

Canada, participating in the Colombo plan for Far Eastern countries which had made no contribution to the Dominion, had not seen fit to do anything similar for the much closer West Indies. It would be better for both Canada and the United States to help their friends than "fritter away taxpayers' money" in Far Eastern communities.

The most useful thing Canada could do for the West Indies, Prime Minister Barrow said, would be to call a meeting to organize a Canada-United Kingdom-United States development fund for loans to the West Indies at an interest rate not exceeding 4½ per cent. The West Indies did not want or need substantial gifts from other countries.

U.S. Newsmen Protest Government Secrecy

CHICAGO (AP)—A committee of professional journalists said Sunday that freedom of information in the United States government is at "the lowest ebb in history."

In its 1963 report, the advancement of freedom of information committee of Sigma Delta Chi, the journalistic society, singled out the defence department as the prime offender. Other government departments and even Congress, however, were criticized for what the committee said was the spreading of the blanket of secrecy over the records of government, and particularly over those records pertaining to spending of taxpayer funds.

While acknowledging the need for secrecy about much that goes on at the defence department, the committee said that the news flow was being stopped in matters having nothing to do with national security.

Relatives ... But Different

Ixia and sparaxis are tiny forms belonging to the same family as the irises, but producing heads of flowers quite unlike their relatives.

These small forms may be planted now in a well drained garden loam with a sunny enough location for them to be able to dry out in summer for ripening. They will come into bloom on 18-inch stems by about mid-May.

In heavier soils, or where frost is likely to be down to three inches in the soil, it is wise to grow these delightful flowers in large pots.

Potted up now, they can be given the shelter of a cold-frame for winter, and by early spring they will be in growth. If a suitable place is then available, the pots can be sunk to the rims in the garden during April, May's warmer days will see them blooming.

Sparaxis and ixia can also be grown in a cool greenhouse or sunporch in winter, and when coming into bloom during March can of course be enjoyed for a week or so in the home.

They do not thrive in high temperatures while making growth, so the pots should be transferred back to cooler quarters to bring along more flower stems.

Colors of ixias range from white through creamy yellow to pink and carmine-red. The flowers are rounded in form and come many to a stem. The name of Corn-lily is sometimes used for them.

Sparaxis have been known as Wand-flower. The blossoms are star-shaped, usually three colors in each bloom, hence the specific name of Sparaxis tricolor.

Scarlet, yellow and black is the most striking combination, in the variety named Fire

Bright Headlights Fatality Cause?

VANCOUVER (CP)—A police official suggested last week that bright headlights may cause traffic fatalities rather than prevent them.

Traffic superintendent A. H. Rossiter suggested investigation of the possibility that city motorists drive with parking lights only in well-lighted areas.

He said at a meeting of the Vancouver Traffic and Safety Council the use of headlights in well-lighted areas would reduce visibility rather than improve it. "Sometimes it is more difficult to see with lights than without lights. Headlights do not necessarily help to pick out pedestrians in dark clothing."

In some U.S. cities the headlights were turned off in the well-lighted areas.

Members agreed that accidents might be reduced if elderly persons adopted conspicuous clothing by night and carried luminous walking canes.

Inbreeding Threatens Islanders

LONDON (AP)—A team of doctors claims inter-marriage among the Tristan da Cunha islanders threatens them with blindness and other congenital abnormalities.

Four medical specialists, who have been studying the islanders since they arrived here two years ago from their volcano-blasted homeland, report this in the current issue of the British Medical Journal.

A group of 198 refugees sailed from Southampton Thursday night to return to their bleak South Atlantic island. An advance party of 55 went last month to prepare homes.

The doctors—experts in children's ailments, tropical diseases, human physiology and general medicine—say the island inhabitants have been living for generations as an inbred and isolated community.

Their abnormalities are proportionately seven times more frequent than in Britain.

The report says: "Among the congenital abnormalities, the most serious was an eye complaint—retinitis pigmentosa. Several islanders suffered from night blindness."

Not all the islanders went back. Fourteen—most of them young—stayed in Britain.

Weston Takes Trade Stamps To Britain

By JOSEPH MACSWEEN

LONDON (CP) — Canadian tycoon Garfield Weston today unleashed a trading stamp war in Britain — earlier and on a bigger scale than he had promised.

Signalling a massive battle tensely watched by housewives, trading stamps of the American firm Sperry and Hutchinson arrived in 553 stores of Weston's Dicoa Holding Company, including Fine Fare supermarkets.

The S and H company—which claims to issue more stamps than the U.S. post office—described the move as the biggest single action in trading stamp history. It said bigger chains issue stamps in North America, but never had so large a number of stores begun an issue at once.

Dicoa President George Metcalf said the move represents a major breakthrough for the British housewife.

Weston's group had announced previously it would introduce the stamps in a limited area Nov. 21—giving the trade three weeks' notice of the plan—but kept its hands free for earlier action in the event of reprisals by competitors.

FORM ALLIANCE

Pricerite, a comparatively small group operating in the south of England, introduced stamps two weeks ago. Last Friday an anti-stamp alliance was formed, representing more than 37,000 shops, headed by Lord Sainsbury, who heads 250 stores.

Crux of the war is the supermarkets, which had earlier honored a gentleman's agreement to shy away from the stamps. The coupons are fairly common in other fields, although not to such an extent as in North America.

Dicoa said the change of issue date resulted from "actions and announced plans of other retailers." The firm believed other large supermarket groups were about to issue and it wanted to be first.

S and H refused to distribute 4,000,000 copies of its catalogue of gifts this year. All retailers who buy from Weston's wholesale group, Food Securities Limited, will be eligible for the issue.

Sainsbury said Saturday: "Gift stamps are a typical American gimmick. But the stamp companies have a big shock coming. They won't fool the British housewife for long with free gifts which are not really free at all."

U.S. HUNTER KILLED IN NORTH B.C. MISHAP

HAZELTON, B.C. (CP)—A hunting trip into northern British Columbia by four Americans ended Saturday with the accidental shooting death of Dan F. Miller, 40, of Edmonds, Wash.

RCMP said Miller was partially hidden behind a clump of trees when he was struck by a bullet from another hunter's gun.

The bullet ricocheted and struck guide Wilfred Edward Love in the calf of his leg.

The accident occurred 50 miles northwest of here and about 500 miles north of Vancouver, B.C.

Miller, 40, was an architect and father of six.

UNTIL FEBRUARY

B.C. Won't Press Takeover Question

Attorney-General Robert Bonner Bonner said Friday the legal question of the B.C. Electric takeover will not be pressed by the provincial government at least until next February.

He said the issue will not be raised at the forthcoming November federal-provincial conference which was, he stated, confined to tax matters.

Premier Bennett had previously indicated that provincial takeover rights would be a topic at what he termed the most important conference since Confederation.

Mr. Bonner said he hopes to raise the takeover issue at a conference on constitutional matters in February.

The takeover was ruled illegal because the B.C. Electric was a federally-incorporated company.

NO EAGERNESS
The judgment of the B.C. Supreme Court never took effect because of an out-of-court cash settlement in September.

Mr. Bonner admitted that he expects the federal government will not be "eager" to change provincial rights in the takeover.

Any government, he said, is reluctant to change previously established practice.

He suggested, though, that if it were necessary to grant special powers to any company, the best method would be by a bill approved in the House of Commons.

Other officers elected were: Dr. W. D. Marshall, vice-commodore; T. J. De La Mare, rear commodore; L. B. Russell, fleet captain; J. A. S. Beattie, staff captain; Dr. C. F. Ballam, fleet surgeon; V. Gadsby, measurer; P. R. A. Coombs, honorary secretary, and D. L. Telford, honorary treasurer.

Honorary commodore is A. D. Crease; honorary fleet chaplain, Archdeacon A. E. de L. Nunn; and honorary curator, E. B. Christopher.

Committeemen are E. P. Ashe, David Anstey, H. D. Plinn, R. A. Jefferson, Capt. E. E. Higgs and Cmdr. C. L. Mofford.

Flying Businessmen Seek Tax Concessions

OTTAWA (CP) — The royal commission on taxation was told today that private aircraft now are an accepted method of business transportation and it is time the revenue department recognized this.

The Canadian Owners and Pilots Association—an organization concerned with private aircraft—told the Carter royal commission that the word "aircraft" should be inserted in the act wherever the word "automobile" appears so that both methods of transportation would get equal tax treatment.

Businessmen who use autos in earning their income are allowed a capital cost allowance on the vehicle. The association told the commission it is only reasonable that aircraft get the same treatment.

The brief pointed out that Canada has the second highest number of private aircraft in the world. Its 6,000 planes are far below the 80,000 private aircraft in the United States, but it has twice as many as France, the third-ranking country.

Transport department statistics for 1961 showed that private aircraft in Canada flew 244,000 hours for business transportation purposes. The association said this amounted to 30,000,000 miles.

Tories Create Special Group To Set Policy

OTTAWA (CP)—A Progressive Conservative party research project, with headquarters in Ottawa and workers in each province, is being established to examine policy and prepare for the next federal election.

Establishment of the project was announced Sunday by Egan Chambers of Montreal, president of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada, after a two-day executive meeting here.

He also announced the party's next annual meeting will be held here Feb. 3-5. Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said he expects the meeting's 1,500 accredited delegates will give him a vote of confidence as party leader.

The executive session appointed most members of a 21-man resolutions committee which will meet a month before the annual meeting to correlate policy resolutions sent in by constituency organizations. Fourteen of the members represent the provinces and northern territories and the other seven—to be appointed within the next few days—will represent the executive and parliamentary group of MPs and senators.

Though the incomplete list was not made public, party officials said the complexion of the new resolutions committee is little changed from the one which prepared for the last annual meeting, prior to this spring's general election.

The executive also heard reports from senior officers of the party, including one from Commons House Leader Gordon Churchill following a study of the organization of the British Conservative party. This is expected to result in strengthening the party's headquarters research and full-time organization staff.

Regular Pattern In Work Force Committee's Aim

The winter works effort must be sustained until there is no difference in the number of people working between winter and summer, says E. E. Chamberlain.

Mr. Chamberlain, manager, Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, will chair the Greater Victoria winter employment campaign committee again this year.

The committee will meet for the first time Tuesday, and is composed of representatives from four municipal councils, and other civic organizations.

Mr. Chamberlain said the winter works campaign should continue until year-round regularity of work becomes an established pattern.

Winch Hits Prisons

OTTAWA (UPI)—New Democrat Harold Winch forecast Friday night that Commons members would demand the federal government improve its prison facilities if they visited the country's penitentiaries.

NUDGE from Kennedy administration, it is reported, is trying to direct astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. into the race for the Senate in his native Ohio. However, because Sen. Stephen M. Young, 74, is hinting he may run again, neither the White House nor the Democratic National Committee is going to be caught with its hand in the situation.

U.S. Refuses To Cut Ties With S.A.

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—The United States served notice Friday it does not intend to break off trade or other relations with South Africa as demanded by Asian and African foes of that country's race segregation policies.

Francis T. P. Plimpton, a deputy leader of the U.S. delegation, reminded the UN Assembly's special political committee that the United States has agreed to curb arms sales to South Africa after Dec. 31. But he called for continued talks and stepped up communications with South Africa in a continued effort to influence it to change its policies. He said American officials privately and publicly have tried to convince South Africa of the wrongness of its apartheid program and will continue to do so.

U.S. SUPREME COURT JUSTICES

Death Penalty for Rape Queried

WASHINGTON — Three members of the U.S. supreme court have suggested that it may be unconstitutional for a state to impose the death sentence on a rapist who has neither taken nor endangered the life of his victim.

The three, Justices Arthur L. Goldberg, William O. Douglas and William J. Brennan, dissented as the court refused this week to review the convictions of two men under death sentence in Virginia and Alabama for rape.

While the three justices indicated no opinion on the constitutionality of death sentences in such cases, their comments reflected their belief that serious questions are involved.

THREE QUESTIONS

In a brief opinion in which the other two justices joined, Goldberg said three questions seemed "relevant and worthy of argument and consideration":

"—Whether, in light of the national and world trend against punishment of rape by death, imposition of a death sentence violates the evolving standards of decency that mark the progress of (our) maturing society?"

"—Whether taking of human life to protect something other than human life is consistent with the constitutional bar against punishments that are disproportionate to the offense charged?"

"—Whether the permissible aims of punishment can be achieved as effectively by punishing rape less severely than by death and, if they can, whether the imposition of the death penalty for rape constitutes 'unnecessary cruelty'."

Many of the changes that have been made by the supreme court in the criminal law over the years have come because the justices were convinced that long established practices, such as denial of counsel to the poor, violated the standards of justice now acceptable to the nation.

FIVE OF 66

Goldberg noted that only five of 66 countries responding to a recent United Nations survey on capital punishment still impose death on rapists. In addition to the United States, they are Nationalist China, Northern Rhodesia, Nyasaland and South Africa.

He also noted that 33 states no longer punish rape by death, and that several others do not actually impose it although their laws permit.

According to FBI statistics, only 17 states and the District of Columbia executed men for rape between 1930 and 1962. Those 17 are the southern and border states bounded by Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia, Kentucky, Missouri, Oklahoma and Texas. During 1962, 11 men were sentenced to death for rape. The sentences were imposed in Maryland, South Carolina, Florida, Alabama, Arkansas and Texas.

The Virginia case which the court's majority refused to review was that of Frank Jimmy Snider Jr., a former Gadsden, Ala., steelworker, who was convicted in 1956 of raping a Roanoke school girl. The Alabama case involved Frank Lee Rudolph, who raped a white woman in 1961. The FBI report says 399 of the 445 persons executed for rape between 1930 and 1962 were negroes.

ON DOGS

Alcohol Makes Heart Work Harder

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Hard liquor can make the heart work harder.

This is true in dogs, at least, whether they took their alcohol as pure ethyl alcohol or in bourbon, two heart researchers reported Saturday.

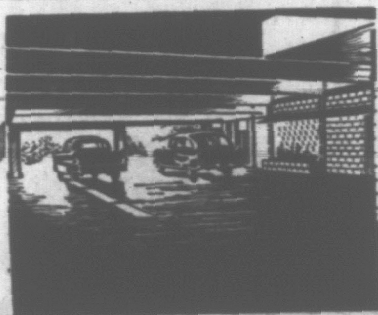

The alcohol effect was described to the American Heart Association by Doctors Ismail U. Degerli and Watts R. Webb of the University of Mississippi medical centre.

It has long been thought, they said, that alcohol helped the heart by dilating coronary arteries which bring blood to the heart muscle tissue itself. This expansion of arteries is thought to increase the flow of blood to a damaged heart.

But the tests with dogs do not bear this out, they said.

When the animals were given alcohol, their hearts pumped out more blood by working harder. At the same time, the flow of blood through the coronary arteries decreased, and this meant the heart muscle was receiving less oxygen while it was doing more work.

The coronary blood flow decreased almost directly in proportion to the amount of alcohol, the doctors said.

SOLUTION WEDNESDAY

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

BUDAPEST—Three times I've been behind the so-called Iron Curtain . . . increasingly it seems that America's Good Guys are trimming Russia's Bad Guys.

We heard rumors here—even in a restaurant with the resounding patriotic name of "The Red Star"—that Russia'll pull out of Hungary, April 1, 1964. (Could it be an April Fool joke?) They say "Comrade" is heard no more among Communists—now it's "Mister."

Are we being naive . . . is this all "propaganda"? Who knows? The mystery of Hungary quickly vanished after we'd flown in from Vienna on Malev Airline. The "mystery of Hungary," of course, is Zsa Zsa Gabor's true age, and a fellow Hungarian told me her exact age "to the day." Naturally, I'm not going to reveal it, as I'm very glib.

The Gabor gals would find Hungarian women today less spoiled than formerly. One American lady in our party, proudly wearing a new sable coat, was astonished that the Hungarian customs inspector never heard of sable. He asked, "What's it from? Rabbit? Muskrat?" The American lady overcame a desire to punch him.

APRICOT DYNAMITE

Swollen-legged old women were doing men's work—but shapely-legged teen-age film stars, such as Cecilia Ezzter, galloped, bounced beautifully around cocktail parties sipping the local apricot dynamite, "barack."

Hungary treated us like VIPs because we'd come to the cities of Buda and Pest to write of the George Sanders-Buddy Hackett-Cinemas movie, "Milly," which Hungary's partner, Hungary, they laid on a cocktail reception . . . a dinner party . . . we had a suite at the Gely, but which (they breathlessly told us) Richard Nixon had lately occupied.

One cannot escape the fact there's a desire to copy Americans. On the local TV we saw ads closely resembling our commercials . . . on radio we heard "the Charleston" and the voices of Connie Francis and Ricky Nelson . . . we watched the twist in a rooftop night club . . . yet some streets still resembled Moscow's to us.

Trustee to Speak At Duncan Meeting

DUNCAN—Harold Whitfield, chairman of Cowichan School Board, will speak on "Searchlight on Education" at a Duncan-Alexander PTA meeting tonight at 8 in Cowichan Senior Secondary School cafeteria.

Trustees Mrs. Isobel Tarlton, Will Dobson and Pat Mason will also attend to answer questions.

Have you ever been to Russia? I asked one Hungarian. "No, and I don't ever want to," he replied, severely.

Nobody can truly say here in the land of Joe Pasternak, Alexander Korda, and the Gabor, if the Good Guys are winning. But evidently even here the Almighty Buck, so-called, is still prized. They tell of some Hungarians encountering some Americans and, noting their speech, asking, "Where are you from—England?"

"No, America," they said . . . whereas one Hungarian beamed and then exclaimed, "Ahhhh, Dollarland!" I don't think that's such a bad name for it.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL IN N.Y. . . . Winthrop Rockefeller's hospitalized here for a checkup . . . The Nat'l Association for Mental Health takes over Grand Central Station—you heard me—for a $1,500-per-person New Year's Eve benefit dinner-supper dance with Guy Lombardo's music. Biggest benefit ever attempted, it will require users of ground-floor trains to "go underground."

Peter Lawford's in town, using the same grey limousine Frank Sinatra rents here . . . a cosmetics company bought $15,000 tickets to "Cleopatra" (in connection with their makeup).

Jill St. John got weary of waiting for a Ferrari auto in a special color, so she spent the 12Gs for a pearl necklace . . . Arthur Miller's new play, "After the Fall," will be available in a $15 autographed edition . . . Boxer Archie Moore goes dramatic again on a Bob Hope-Chrysler TV'er . . . Frank Sinatra Jr., Liza Minelli (Judy Garland's dir.) and Peter Duchin'll guest on the "April in Paris" TV'er . . . Ebony magazine predicts we'll have two Negro governors by '74 (with Atty Gen. Edward Brooke of Mass. a best bet).

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: "My doctor called again," reports Ray Haws of Cleveland. "He wanted to know how his check was coming along."

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 26-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe. Andy sends a complete, 26-volume set of World Book Encyclopedia to Joseph Vettorel, age 8, of Tucson, Arizona, for his question:

What is humidity?

The word humidity is always in the weather report. The weatherman tells us that the day's humidity is 30 per cent, 60 per cent or maybe 90 per cent. It may be anything from one per cent to 100 per cent. Twenty per cent is low humidity. It tells us that the air is dry. Ninety per cent is high humidity. It tells us that the air is full of moisture. Moisture is water and water can be invisible. You can see the liquid water in a glass. It is visible. You also can touch it and feel its wetness. But with no trouble at all, you can make this water disappear. Then you cannot see it or touch it. However, it still will be water, it still will be moisture.

All you need for this magic trick is some heat. So pour your glass of water in a saucepan and put it on a hot stove. As the water gets hot, a steamy mist rises up from the top. The liquid water is turning into an invisible gas which is called water vapor. Water is made from tiny molecules, too small for our eyes to see. In liquid water, the little molecules cling together. They are packed closely enough to touch each other and water fills all the space in the glass. We can see it and touch it. When liquid water is heated its molecules tend to separate from each other. And remember we cannot see a single molecule. Vapor is made from trillions of single water molecules. The tiny midgets are light enough to fly away. They spread out and mingle with the other gases of the air. And all these gases are invisible. This vapor adds moisture to the air and moisture in the air is humidity. When the humidity is high, there is a lot of moisture in the air. When the humidity is low, the air is dry and almost free of moisture.

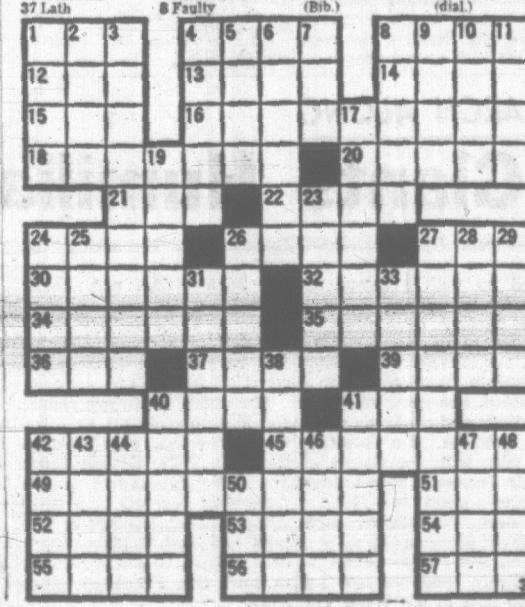

Turns Water Into Vapor

The vapor in the air turns to clouds and the clouds turn to rain. All this moisture comes from liquid water on the earth. The smiling sun warms the sea and the lakes, the rivers and the little puddles. Countless water molecules get enough heat to break free and fly off in the air. The sun turns water into vapor. And vapor adds humidity to the air. The air can hold so much water and no more. When the humidity is 100 per cent, the air can hold no more moisture. If more vapor molecules are added, the air must get rid of them. The extra vapor must be changed back to liquid water. It becomes a mass of misty droplets—and a cloud is born.

'HOWE' ABOUT THAT! GORDIE GETS NO. 544

The goal that was inevitable, Gordie Howe's 544th which tied the record held by Maurice Rocket Richard, touched off a wild five-minute demonstration in Detroit's Olympia Sunday night. That's Howe, dark jersey, watching the puck hit the hemp behind Gump

Worsley as Montreal's Gilles Tremblay moves in too late to defend. Howe's effort was about all Detroit fans had to cheer about as Canadiens defeated Red Wings 6-4. Richard got 544 in 978 games, Howe in 1,127. (AP Wirephoto.)

That Extra Step Hurting Habit

Olympians 4, Oil Kings 2

By DOUG PEDEN

Are the young men laboring with Canada's Olympic hockey team striving a bit too much for perfection? Few have anything but praise for Father David Bauer's Olympians from the University of B.C., but some hockey people have expressed concern over their tendency to fritter away scoring opportunities.

There appeared a possibility that the Olympians might be trying to be a mite too cute in front of the net when they clashed with Edmonton Oil Kings Saturday night at Memorial Arena. They chalked up a 4-2 triumph over the reigning Canadian junior champions but could have won by several goals with better shooting.

Olympians were helped by a couple of "soft" goals on their first two rushes of the game and outshot the Oil Kings 33-16 over the route. Yet they had to work all the way against the hustling, bustling juniors and never appeared sure of a win until slick Gary Dineen fired his second goal of the night with less than two minutes remaining on a spectacular play with Ray Cadieux.

Terry Clancy and Marshall Johnston collected the other two tallies for Father Bauer's crew. Oil Kings, who had earlier dropped 5-2 and 2-4 decisions to the Olympians, got goals from Greg Tomalty and Greg Pilling.

Perhaps lacking some of their usual quickness because they were playing their fifth game in eight days, Olympians turned in a solid effort until they got within scoring range. They were particularly strong on defence and moved the puck well when able to shake off the tenacious forechecking of the Kings.

And they may have missed the leadership of big Brian Conacher, perhaps their best skater. Conacher suffered a pulled leg muscle during the 2-0 win over Edmonton the previous night at UBC. He gave it a try Saturday but the injury was aggravated when he was boarded in the opening minutes and Conacher was forced to call it a night.

Modest Output Puzzles Brayshaw

Oil Kings, showing considerable courage and talent as they bounced back from the near-disastrous start, also exhibited a liking for rough stuff. The Olympians at times were tempted to retaliate and the game produced 13 penalties, six of them on double calls for roughing or high-sticking.

Bus Brayshaw, coach of the Kings, is one of those who has been puzzled by the UBC club's modest goal production.

Y splashes picked up 20 ribbons, including 10 firsts. Event winners for the Islanders were Elizabeth Finestone, Diane Smedley, Jamie and Ricky Stelek, Ray and Leona Vaast, Dave Robinson, Sheila Moffat, Peter Cruise and Laua Steele.

Babe Ruth Meeting

Annual general meeting of the Cosmopolitan Babe Ruth League will be held tonight at 8 at Gordon Head Community Hall, Tyndall Avenue.

VERSAILLES, France (CP-AP) — The United States with Jack Nicklaus chalking up a fantastic run of birdies, won the Canada Cup golf tournament for the fourth straight year today as play in the final round was delayed by fog and then finally cut to nine holes.

Nicklaus, the 23-year-old husky better from Columbus, Ohio, fired six birdies and finished four under par to win the individual title with a 63-hole total of 237.

The tournament was decided over 63 holes because the swirling fog prevented play over the full distance of 72 holes. Tournament director Fred Corcoran said all 33 teams would finish the 63 holes "even if we have to floodlight the course."

Arnold Palmer, a member of two of the three previous U.S. championship teams, had a 245 to give the U.S. a combined score of 482. Palmer had a 34 for the final nine holes.

The final round originally was scheduled for Sunday but was postponed because of a heavy fog. Fog blanketed the par-72 Saint-Nom-La-Breche links today but, after a long delay, lifted enough to permit the players from 33 countries to tee off.

ROUND SHORTENED

Corcoran ruled, however, that the round be reduced to nine holes because of weather conditions and the fact a number of the players have commitments in Australia Wednesday. Spain, tied with Nicklaus and Palmer at 416 for the team championship going into the final round, ended up with 485 for second place. Sebastian Miguel had a 33 for a 63-hole total of 242 and Ramon Sota a 36 for a 243.

South Africans Gary Player and Retief Waltman wound up third with a total of 492. Then came Al Balding and Stan Leonard of Canada with 495 followed by Australia's Bruce Crampton and Bruce Devlin with 497.

Player finished with a 37, giving him a 63-hole total of 242 and a tie with Miguel for second place in the battle for the individual crown won last year by Argentina's Roberto de Vicenzo.

Balding, from Markham, Ont., finished with a 245 and Leonard, from Vancouver, had 250. Balding's card was 67-71-73-34 and Leonard's 69-71-71-39.

STARTS EARLY

Nicklaus started his fantastic string of birdies on the par 5, 456-yard first hole, two putting from 45 feet. He got another birdie 3 at the second with a booming 300-yard drive and a second shot that went to 30 inches of the pin.

The U.S. Masters and PGA champion had to settle for a par 3 on the 180-yard third hole but got back into the birdie swing on the 405-yard par 4 fourth. He dropped a 20-foot putt.

Palmer joined Nicklaus with a birdie on the 409-yard par 4 fifth with Arnold dropping a 15-foot putt and Nicklaus sinking his from 35 feet.

Nicklaus continued his almost unbelievable run on the 430-yard sixth when he holed out from a sand trap 70 feet from the pin. The ball bounced once on the green and then popped into the hole for the three.

"There's no doubt that his big trouble is putting the puck in the net," he said. "They may be trying to take an extra step or set up a big play."

"But don't forget this is their first year together. In another couple of months this club is going to surprise a lot of people."

"When they get over to Europe and the chips are down, they'll be tough. I don't say they'll win at the Olympics, but I'll pick them to finish no worse than second."

Father Bauer was pleased with the Olympians' Saturday effort.

"I feel much better," he said. "We played better than last night. Our defensive work was good and we had the scoring chances. That's really all I worry about. I think the goals will come."

The Olympians have approximately 20 more exhibition games before they step into the Olympic tournament next spring in Austria.

Long Wait Over For Howe, Bruins

Detroit Ace Ties Record, Boston Wins

By The Canadian Press

The Boston Bruins and Gordie Howe waited for what seemed like ages, but both reached National Hockey League milestones Sunday night. Howe scored the 544th regular season goal of his career to tie Maurice Rocket Richard's record, a feat that eluded him for three frustrating games. And the Bruins won a game, their first victory in eight starts this season.

Howe's accomplishment touched off a five-minute cheering and paper-throwing demonstration by 14,749 Detroit Red Wings fans at Olympia Stadium. They had little else to cheer about as Montreal whipped the Wings 6-4.

In other games Sunday, Chicago Black Hawks opened up a four-point first place lead with a 4-1 victory over the New York Rangers and Boston, behind stalwart goaltending by Ed Johnston, blanketed the Toronto Maple Leafs 2-0.

Saturday, Montreal and Chicago played to a 1-1 deadlock and Toronto outscored New York 6-4.

FIRST BRUIN WIN

The Bruins had lost six straight games since opening the season with a 4-4 tie against the Canadiens until the encounter with Toronto.

Johnston locked the door with 33 saves and Boston tasted victory with goals by Forbes Kennedy and Murray Oliver.

Kennedy got his first of the season unassisted in the opening period when he picked up a loose puck in his own end and outtraced two Leafs to beat Johnny Bower with a 30-footer that bounced off the goalie's chest and dribbled in.

Oliver's marker, a 10-footer off a pass from Tom Williams, came in the second period while Toronto was short-handed.

Ab McDonald sparked the Hawks with two goals and Bobby Hull and John McKenzie got singles as Chicago moved four points up on Toronto and Montreal, tied for second.

TWO IN MINUTE

A goal by Don Marshall gave the Rangers a 1-0 lead, but it didn't last through the first period.

Jean Beliveau scored twice within a minute and ten seconds in the second period to break open a 1-1 tie and lead the Canadiens to victory over the Wings. Montreal never looked back from that point.

Montreal's Red Berenson opened the scoring but Parker MacDonald tied it up. Beliveau made it 3-1 and despite Detroit goals by Larry Jeffrey, Bill Gadsby and Howe, the Canadiens stayed at least one ahead on markers by Dave Balon, Bernie Geoffrion and Gilles Tremblay.

Howe, who gets a chance to break the record Tuesday against Chicago, tied the Rocker's mark with a clean goal. He banged in Bruce MacGregor's pass from the boards at close range on a Detroit power play.

But even Howe couldn't hold the Canadiens, who bombed Wings goalie Terry Sawchuk with 45 shots.

The Habs also were flying high on Saturday but Chicago nemesis Glenn Hall was sensational, especially during Montreal's all-out effort in the third period. He stopped 12 shots in the last frame while the Hawks managed only four.

ARGOS WIN

Ti-Cats Take Eastern Flag

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Veteran quarterback Bernie Faloney gave Hamilton Tiger-Cats the Eastern Football Conference title Saturday.

With second down on Ottawa Rough Riders' 37-yard line and the score 10-10, Faloney quick-kicked the ball out of the end zone in the last minute of the game. It scored the winning point and gave Hamilton a two-point edge over the second-place Riders.

More important, the 11-10 win gave Hamilton the season's series between the clubs two games to one. This means that even if Ottawa can climb into a tie for the lead in next weekend's final game, the Tiger-Cats will still finish first with a bye into the finals.

Ottawa will take on Montreal Alouettes, who finished third, in a sudden-death semi-final a week after the season ends.

Toronto Argonauts, who wrapped up fourth and last place several weeks ago, won the only other game in the East during the weekend.

They beat Saskatchewan Roughriders 44-28 in a Canadian Football League interlocking game.

ERASES TICAT LEAD

Bobby Kuntz' one-yard touchdown plunge in the first quarter and Don Sutherland's convert gave the Ticats a 7-0 half time lead. Ottawa's Ron Stewart balanced this with a one-yard scoring plunge of his own in the third quarter.

Rick Black, who added the tying convert, kicked a 17-yard field goal early in the fourth quarter for a 10-7 Ottawa lead.

But Sutherland's 29-yard placement shortly after tied the score and set the stage for Faloney.

During the game, Faloney had completed only seven of 21 passes for 136 yards while Rider quarterback Russ Jackson completed 11 of 17, gaining 180 yards. The Rough Riders, led the Tiger-Cats in rushing, 181 yards to 109, and in first downs, 20-12.

In Toronto, the Argonauts intercepted four passes and recovered one fumble by the Roughriders to set up five of their six touchdowns. All told, the teams came up with seven pass interceptions and four fumbles in the wild contest that was meaningless to both clubs. Saskatchewan has wrapped up third place in the Western Conference.

Toronto's halfback Dick Shatto scored two touchdowns, carried the ball 17 times for 134 yards, completed three of four pass attempts for 34 yards and caught seven throws from Sandy Stephens for 131 yards. It gave Shatto 383 receptions in his career, six more than the record established by former Montreal Alouette Red O'Quinn.

Nothing at Stake... Offences Ran Wild

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

With only individual records at stake, offensive units went all out in three fast-moving, high-scoring Western Football Conference games during the weekend.

Calgary Stampeders downed the lowly Edmonton Eskimos 45-28 in Edmonton Saturday. In the process, flanker Bobby Taylor set a record for pass receptions. Taylor picked off four from Calgary quarterback Gerry Keeling to up his total to 69—one better than Winnipeg Blue Bomber Bud Grant in 1953 and Ernie Pitts in 1959.

Blue Bomber halfback George Fleming moved to within 12 points of the Western Conference scoring record set in 1958.

Successful Defence

Ted Williams and Bill Craven of Uplands successfully defended the seniors' buttons by turning back Colwood challengers Rev. Harry Pike and Jimmy Dalziel on the 18th at Victoria Golf Club. Oak Bay's Glen Coffey and John Sturdy offer the next challenge.

Keeling was relieving in the slot for injured Eagle Day and he fired 14 of 21 attempted passes for 267 yards. One was an 18-yard touchdown effort and another was a 68-yard touchdown toss to halfback Jim Dillard. Dillard picked up another, halfback Lovell Coleman got two and Keeling went over himself once.

CONVERTS THE TDs
Larry Robinson booted a field goal and converted all the touchdowns.

Eskimos' Lynn Amede passed to E. A. Sims and Jim Thomas for touchdowns. Thomas ran another and the fourth came on Mike Lashuk's plunge from the one.

The beating handed Dave Skrien's Lions at Winnipeg—the first Sunday game in the city—should bring them back to earth for the playoffs. Skrien said the loss probably did him team some good.

Lions, resting at the top of the WFC for the first time, jumped ahead early in the game on a sparkling 97-yard dash by Willie Fleming. Five minutes later, Ernie Pitts took a 46-yard pass at a full gallop to even the score. But Lions ran out of breath and the Bombers kept going.

George Fleming and Leo Lewis scored two touchdowns each for Winnipeg.

Going across for the Lions twice was Willie Fleming. Quarterback Joe Kapp scored once. Peter Kempf booted two converts to raise his total points to 105—second best in the conference.

OAKLAND UPSETS SAN DIEGO

Grim Giants Humiliate Brown(s)

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
New York Giants overwhelmed the previously unbeaten Browns in a National Football League encounter Sunday in such convincing fashion (33-6) that Cleveland coach Blanton Collier admitted:

"They simply outplayed us in every single angle of the game."

The offensive heroes were Y. A. Tittle, the balding quarterback, and Don Chandler, who kicked four field goals.

Cleveland's Jimmy Brown, the league's No. 1 rusher with a 150-yard-a-game average, was limited to 40 yards in nine carries.

Frank Ryan completed one pass in nine attempts and wound up with a minus six yards for his efforts.

The Browns' loss deprived the NFL of its last unbeaten team, but Cleveland still leads the Eastern Conference with a 6-1 record, one game ahead of New York and St. Louis Cardinals, both 5-2. The Cardinals kept pace with the Giants as Charlie Johnson pitched three touchdown passes in a 21-7 victory over Washington Redskins.

Green Bay Packers and Chicago Bears remained tied for the top spot in the West. The Packers made the most of top performances by second-stringers John Rosh and Elijah Pitts for a 34-20 walloping of Baltimore Colts and the Bears defeated Philadelphia Eagles 16-7 on two long drives engineered by Billy Wade.

Elsewhere, Ed Brown passed for four touchdowns as Pittsburgh Steelers edged Dallas Cowboys 27-21. Detroit Lions got three touchdown passes from Earl Morrall in a 28-10 triumph over Minnesota Vikings and Los Angeles Rams used Roman Gabriel's passing to down San Francisco 49ers 28-21.

In the American League, Cotton Davidson's nine-yard touchdown pass to Glenn Shaw carried Oakland Raiders to a 34-33 upset of the Western Division leading San Diego Chargers.

Houston took over the top spot in the East as George Blanda passed for three second half touchdowns in the Oilers' 28-7 triumph over Kansas City Chiefs.

Boston Patriots dropped to a tie for second at 4-4 after a 28-21 loss to Buffalo Bills Saturday night while New York Jets remained in contention at 3-3-1 after a 35-35 tie with Denver Broncos before a record AFL turnout in New York of 20,577. The four-game program attracted 106,133, the season's high.

The Giants scored the first seven times they had the ball, with Tittle passing 23 yards to Del Shofner and six to Hugh McElhenney for touchdowns. Alex Webster smashing two yards for another and Chandler kicking field goals of 29, 34, 35 and 42 yards. The Browns scored on a 10-yard pass from reserve quarterback Jim Minowski to Rich Kreitling in the final quarter.

Oak Bay Athletes Easily the Best In Inter-High Gala

Nothing's changed. Oak Bay swimmers, dominant in inter-high school championship galas for the past several years, still rule the roost.

Oak Bay Senior High retained the Sir Edward Beatty Trophy with a whopping 177 points, 95 more than second-place Esquimalt High.

Oak Bay Junior High captured the Dickinson and Dunn Trophy with equal ease, scoring 125 points. Runner-up Lansdowne scored 50.

With no team entered from Victoria High, Oak Bay swimmers pretty well had their own way.

Four of the gala's 11 records set Saturday were established by Oak Bay pupils. Pip McOrmond and Mike Cullin set individual standards while relay teams took care of other marks.

The Grossman family of Esquimalt also came in for a big share of plaudits. Eric Grossman and sister Lynn both broke records in two events.

Esquimalt's Mary Helen Johanson also was a recordwrecker in two events, establishing new standards in the 100-yard senior girls' freestyle and the 50-yard backstroke.

Grant Treloar of Colquhuts was the day's other record-breaker, posting a time of 29.6 seconds in the junior boys' backstroke.

Accent on Defence United's Best Bet

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Goalkeeper Barry Sadler said it on the field with acrobatic actions. Fullback Ron Jenkin said it with words.

Both had the same thing in mind.

"Defensive football," muttered Jenkin to a teammate in Victoria United's dressing room. "Maybe that's the answer."

It was the ticket Saturday as United, still finding goals hard to come by, shut out Vancouver Wallace 2-0 for Victoria's second straight victory in the Pacific Coast Soccer League.

United's defence was a wall. Wallace's attack was a sieve. United's defence was a wall. Wallace's attack was a sieve.

WESTS HOLD FIRST Practice Needed By Penalty-Takers

Don't be surprised if managers of some first division teams in the Victoria and District Soccer League start putting penalty-takers through some extra workouts.

Penalty goals—or rather the missed ones—figured prominently in Sunday's results.

Brodie's, for example, had to give up a share of second place after veteran Geoff Hill missed one from the spot. It happened in the second half, and Brodie's had to settle for a 3-2 tie with Hourigan's Kickers.

Dick Austin also missed one, the victim of a brilliant piece of goalkeeping by George Jackson, and that cost Price and Smith a chance to tie the Canadian Scottish. The Scots won, 1-0, on Stu Finlayson's goal.

WESTS RALLY

A penalty goal sparked a great comeback by Victoria Wests.

John Craig scored for Brodie's.

Kickers took over first place in the second division, blanking Gorge 4-0. Oak Bay routed Navy 9-1 to take sole possession of third, and in other games, Victoria University edged Dunlop 3-0; while Wanderers beat Kings 2-0.

BETTER THAN RECORD

Wallace scored only three goals in six previous games but they looked like a better team than their record indicates. They applied surprisingly strong pressure for a last-place team and it afforded Sadler a chance to turn in his best effort of the season.

Three first-half saves, in particular, made it Barry's day.

Inside Joe Burdette was the first to test Sadler, sending a screaming 18-yarder at the 23-minute mark. Sadler rose to the occasion. Twelve minutes later, inside left John Gooding was the victim of another seemingly impossible save. Then there was a sprawling, fingertip save that Sadler made on Bob Swinton as the second half opened.

United forwards enjoyed a fine first 10 minutes but the play gradually swung the other way as the desperate Wallace continually beat Victoria forwards to the ball.

AND AT CALLISTER...

There were more exciting moments in Vancouver's Callister Park. North Shore United pulled off a big upset Saturday by defeating Firefighters 1-0, then Canadians jarred Columbus 2-1 Sunday in a meeting between the league's two undefeated teams.

In another Sabbath match at Seattle, New Westminster Royals and Seattle's Hungarians tied, 3-3.

Huskies' Rugby Squad Splits With City XVs

The well-conditioned Huskies opened with a 13-0 victory over Royal Roads on Saturday but were beaten 9-0 Sunday by Victoria University Vikings Sunday.

Sunday's match on the Gordon Head campus was a victory for experience over size. Vikings made the most of their opportunities in the rough game to score three tries, two by Bruce

The Victoria Basketball Association sounds a "call-to-arms" Tuesday.

Signings start 6:30.

Registration is for pre-midget (under 12) and midget (under 14) boys. Parents interested in helping with supervision of the VBA program also are urged to turn out at the same time.

WRENETTES SHOW WHY They're the Nation's Best

Forty teen-aged girls of the Patricia Dufour Navy League Wrenette Corps gave evidence in a parade in the Bay Street Armory Sunday afternoon of the proficiency which won them a much-coveted national award.

Joining the wrenettes in the impressive ceremony, which was watched by hundreds of guests, including several up-island Navy League officials and many parents, were Rainbow Sea Cadets and Admiral Ray-

'HANG UP FLIPPERS' YOUNG DIVER ADVISED

A Vancouver diver who came to Victoria Sunday seeking help for the "bends" left Sunday night with naval medical advice—"don't go near the water."

Navy doctors who checked over Stuart Craig, 17, told him he has a physiological condition that will set up when he dives in deep water.

Craig, a member of the YMCA Diving Club, three weeks ago spent 38 hours in the navy's recompression chamber at Esquimalt for the bends after he surfaced too quickly from a deep dive.

He began suffering nausea and other distress Sunday after a similar dive, and flew from Vancouver for treatment in the recompression chamber.

After checking him over, navy doctors told him it was not a recurrence of the bends, but a quirk of his own physical makeup.

They advised him to take up something else.

Topics of Day

Several local magicians visited Vancouver recently for the 21st anniversary dinner and magic show of the Vancouver Magic Circle.

Visiting from Victoria were Mr. and Mrs. Art Curtis, Mr. and Mrs. Lon Chaney, Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Crookford, and Owen Fowler.

Centennial United Church is celebrating its 77th anniversary with a turkey dinner in the church hall at 5:30 p.m. today.

It will be followed with a concert by Louise Porter, soprano; Stanley Martin, baritone; and Barbara Ann Court, violinist.

The United Appeal fund stands today at $215,186. The amount is 53.3 per cent of the $400,000 target. Crew members of HMCS Skeena donated $500 during the weekend.

Saanich police suspect that juveniles were responsible for a break-in at Cloverdale School over the weekend.

Entry was made through open windows into an extension being built on the school. Nothing is reported missing but about $40 worth of damage was done, mainly to doors.

A driver who sideswiped a car on Douglas at Yates Saturday afternoon and then kept on going was fined $100 in magistrate's court today for failing to remain.

Paul Schroeder, 352 Gorge, was also fined $45 for careless driving. The accused telephoned police an hour after the accident and admitted being the driver of the hit-and-run vehicle.

Schroeder's licence was also suspended.

A Victoria man rolled his brand new car and totally wrecked it on the Trans Canada Highway Saturday night but escaped without serious injury.

William Jackson is reported today to be in good condition in King's Daughters' Hospital in Duncan.

He was driving north about four miles north of Duncan near Somers Road in his small foreign-made car when it left the road. The car rolled three times before coming to a stop in a ditch. Damage was estimated at $2,500.

Greater Victoria school board meets Friday to go over the final draft of its brief to Education Minister Leslie Peterson in support of an adult education centre here.

Trustees will also set a date for the formal presentation of the 10-page document.

It is a consolidation of arguments compiled during the last seven months in favor of an academic-vocational institution under control of the board of trustees.

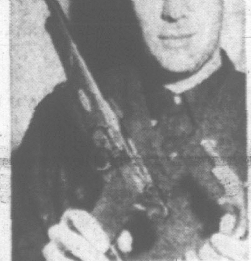

A recent crackdown on drug peddling by RCMP in Vancouver appears to have curtailed supplies to addicts in Victoria who are resorting to theft to satisfy their drug demands.

A doctor's bag containing drugs was stolen from a locked car Friday night. It contained morphine and demerol and a syringe. The bag belonged to Dr. J. W. E. Hunt, 935 Phil Day Road.

Other items in the bag were jettisoned by the thief and found later, but the drugs have not been recovered.

Several Saanich druggists have reported to police that suspected addicts have been trying to obtain pills from them.

A drug store in Victoria was burgled a week ago and a large quantity of drugs was stolen from it.

Nuclear Ships 'Best Bet' For Canada

Groos Pressing For New Program

A nuclear shipbuilding program was advocated by Victoria MP David Groos today to replace the plan for new frigates scrapped by Ottawa.

He said Canada's defence needs could be best served by either submarines or other vessels with nuclear power. Cancellation of the $374,000,000 frigate plan was a hard blow to B.C.'s shipyards. They expressed fears of unemployment.

But the federal government has no intention of neglecting the shipyards, said Mr. Groos, and he personally is pressing for a new building program as soon as possible.

"We are looking for something better suited to Canada's needs," said the local Liberal MP, who is a member of the Commons defence committee.

"Quite obviously there is going to be a shipbuilding program because we are all very much concerned about the need for employment in our shipyards, and I, as member for Victoria, am particularly concerned."

Mr. Groos said the government is not sure what it will build but the matter is under active investigation.

"But personally I hope they are going to recognize the field of nuclear propulsion. This is the thing of the future."

Mr. Groos leaves Victoria on Tuesday for Paris, where he will head Canada's military delegation to a NATO parliamentary conference.

On Nov. 8 he will join other members of the defence committee for a two-week tour of European military bases. The committee will visit France, Britain and Germany, returning to Canada Nov. 22.

Welfare Failure Charged In Aid for Fire Victims

City welfare agencies failed to give concrete aid to a young family of seven left destitute by a house fire on Friday, a benefactor charged today.

Ernest Picton, 749 McClure, a city jobbing contractor, took the family into his home after the fire destroyed their house and belongings at 702 Blanshard.

He said that when he found Derek and Ruth Clark and their five young children at the scene of the disaster, "there was nothing there—and nobody with them."

"CALL IF NEEDED" He said the Red Cross arrived some time later, and offered help if needed. Later Saturday, St. Vincent de Paul "told us to call if we needed anything."

Mr. Picton, a Welshman, said that during the London blitz, "if you saw a man with a bomb-injured leg you didn't ask if he'd like a bandage."

"You went ahead and put one on him. People shouldn't ask you to call if you need something. They should ask what you need, and bring it."

Three United Appeal agencies—the Victorian Order of Nurses, Family and Children's Service and St. Vincent de Paul—offered services Saturday if they were called upon by the Clark family.

Community Chest president Dr. Peter Banks had commented: "This is the United Appeal in swift action."

By Saturday, Mr. Picton had established the Clarks in his own home.

The Clark children are Marcia, 6, Douglas, 4, Brian, 3,

Outside Study Asked On Hospital Services

Public Entitled To Know—Adams

A complete impartial study by outside experts of B.C.'s hospital services was proposed today by Victoria's outspoken Dr. R. E. Adams.

Dr. Adams last week triggered a storm of controversy when he charged that too many babies are dying in B.C. hospitals.

He said the hospitals are harassed by lack of government aid.

Today he joined R. H. Proctor, president of the B.C. Hospital Association, in calling for a province-wide continuing study of infant mortality.

"This is the highest mortality rate of any time of life—about 3 per cent," Dr. Adams said.

There are ways to improve maternity care which have been successful elsewhere, but not tried in B.C., he said.

"They are being done with amazing results. I can't think of anything more worthwhile."

NO SATISFACTION "But we need just as greatly as impartial study of B.C. hospitals done by outside experts. The public cannot be satisfied until this is done," Dr. Adams said.

Dr. Adams suggested the study could be undertaken by such groups as the Canadian or U.S. Hospital Associations, or the Health Information Foundation, with experts of international repute.

He said the B.C. public is entitled to know just where hospital care stands in the province, and to know what value it is getting for its health dollar.

Dr. Adams is medical director of St. Joseph's Hospital.

It was his report last week that B.C. is lagging in many areas of hospital progress that sparked a sharp exchange with Health Minister Eric Martin.

NO COMMENT Mr. Martin said he would investigate the medical profession for possible neglect in baby deaths.

Dr. Adams said he would not comment on Mr. Martin's fiery statements.

"The minister will want to be responsible for his own statements," he said.

Mr. Martin said today that his deputy hospital insurance minister, Donald M. Cox, was starting "a routine check" on Dr. Adams' statements. He denied that he had threatened the medical profession.

Mr. Cox said he would start by reviewing Dr. Adams' report, a comprehensive study presented to the B.C. Hospital Association.

TWO ISSUES Dr. Adams said there are two central issues: the need to improve care of newborn infants, and the overall need to maintain the highest possible hospital standards generally.

Report Due Tuesday On Lake Pollution

Saanich health and welfare committee Tuesday evening will hear a report by sanitary inspector David Smith on pollution in Prospect Lake.

Citizens of the Prospect Lake area are expected to discuss the report.

It was prepared about two weeks ago, but Saanich council has requested the press to keep its contents secret until after Tuesday night's meeting.

The report was ordered June 11 after a senior official of the Greater Victoria Board of Health told the municipal council that the lake was so polluted as to be of "doubtful quality" for drinking.

PIPE WATER Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread, senior medical health officer, wrote to the council urging them to curb pollution of the lake, and supply residents with piped-in city water.

Some residents of the area said they were against piped-in water—which they would have to partly pay for installing—and council ordered the survey.

In preparing his report, Mr. Smith made use of two sets of bacteriological examinations of samples of lake water taken between April, 1956 and November, 1962 by the board of health.

Other bacteriological examinations were made this year of water in water flowing into Prospect Lake, and of water from private wells.

About two pages of the report are devoted to Mr. Smith's recommendations to council suggesting ways of meeting the problem.

EFFORTS of University of Victoria groundsmen were cramped at the weekend when recently seeded grass hockey field was gouged out in shape of a huge W. Vandals drove a car or truck over the Gordon Head campus playing field that will take weeks to repair. Arthur Saunders, buildings and grounds supervisor, called it "absolutely, completely unnecessary, wilful damage." (Photo by John Philion.)

DISASTER PARLEY

The Community Welfare Council will hold an executive meeting soon to discuss disaster action in future emergencies.

Council president Dr. Roy E. Watson said today he will recommend to executives that representatives of all Greater Victoria welfare agencies be invited.

The result may be a central referral bureau directing people in need to the appropriate agency.

Cash gifts amounting to $95 rolled in, along with donations of food and clothing from private citizens.

Lady Constance Drayton, after a phone call to the Picton home, promised $100.

"The people of Victoria are so good," said Mr. Picton.

Sunday night Mr. Picton installed the Clarks in a rented house at 1361 Vista Heights, and arranged for the rent—$60 a month—to be paid for three months.

"With Christmas coming up, they'll have a home," he said. Mr. Clark works two days a week as a garbage collector.

Mr. Picton said: "I don't want to be derogatory about the

He said: "Victoria has always been a catchplace for antiques. Many weapons were given as gifts when British people left for the Colonies."

He said there are not so many early American weapons, although there was one display of Winchester rifles from 1866 to 1940.

Newest weapon at the display was an FM automatic rifle from Vancouver.

HOW CAN YOU BELIEVE IN SOMETHING THAT JUST ISN'T TRUE? HE'S NEVER GOING TO SHOW UP! HE DOESN'T EXIST!

Gun Exhibition Fast on the Draw

TWO EXHIBITS at first Victoria gun show Sunday were 1902 Luger carbine designed for use by German Kaiser and Colt derringer .41 calibre 1885 gambler's gun. Owner Gary Abbott has collected arms for 12 years. (Times Photo).

The guns were in town Sunday—fast and slow, big, little, old and new.

It was Victoria's first annual gun show, and it drew a good crowd. About 800 weapons and related items were on display at the Knights of Pythias Hall on Cormorant Street.

The Vancouver Island Arms Collectors' Association was formed in 1961 after eight years of informal meetings.

There are 28 members on the Island, and they turned out Sunday with weapons ranging from the 1600s to the present day.

President Hugh Lyle, 115 Moss Street, said the response to the display was so great that it will become an annual event.

Tables in the hall were crammed with weapons, and included seven tables carrying exhibits of five members of the B.C. association in Vancouver.

Oldest weapon on display was a pistol from the period of William of Orange (1650-1702). The pistol belongs to Mr. Lyle.

DEAR ABBY . . .

This 'Friend' Is Dangerous

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a junior in high school, but quite mature for my age. A good friend of my family, who is 40 and married, has taken an interest in me. He said, "if there is anything you want to know about the facts of life or anything you want to confide, come to me because you would not want to go to your parents with things like that, would you?" He's right. There are some things I wouldn't go to my parents with. He said when he was my age, he developed a close friendship with a woman teacher and he learned a lot. He thinks every young person should develop a close friendship with someone older of the opposite sex. There are a few things I would like to know more about. Should I confide in him?

LOTS OF QUESTIONS—

DEAR LOTS: No. In my opinion this family friend is out of line. A REAL friend would encourage a young girl to confide in her parents. The best thing you can develop between this man and yourself is distance.

DEAR ABBY: My son is in Germany and has been there for five months. He got a "Dear John letter" from this girl in our home town who had promised him she'd wait "forever." We, being in the same town, knew she was writing our son this letter and we worried for fear he would take it very hard. We worried in vain. We heard that he put her picture up on the bulletin board with her name and address under it, and across the top he printed AVAILABLE. Now she is mad at all of us because she got six letters from soldiers in his outfit. Yours truly, CASEYVILLE.

DEAR ABBY: Would you kindly inform me as to how soon a bride is expected to get her thank-you notes out for her wedding gifts? I was married three months ago. Over 700 people attended our wedding. We went on a two-week honeymoon, but the day after we returned I started back to work again. I have a five-room apartment to take care of, so you know I am not just sitting around doing nothing. My mother-in-law told my husband that if I didn't hurry up and get those thank-you notes out, she would offer to do it for me. I'd like your opinion on how guilty of negligence you think I am.

VERY, VERY BUSY

DEAR BUSY: Very! You should have started writing your thank-you notes the day after you returned from your wedding trip—if you had to burn the midnight oil while doing it.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Hate to write letters? Send one dollar to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif., for Abby's new booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Now Is the Time to Start Trick and Treat Diet

At this "trick or treat" time of year I bring you my Trick AND Treat Diet. This is a seven-day diet which gives you a loss of about five pounds. It plays tricks on the extra pounds while it gives you food you will enjoy.

Perhaps you have been procrastinating about losing a few pounds which make a big difference in your figure. The short term reducing diet is the answer to this problem. It is much easier to attack the situation vigorously for a few days than it is to play around with the idea, and the calories, for weeks or months. Also remember that those five pounds are almost sure to multiply faster than compound interest unless you do something about them now.

The short reducing diet also has great psychological value as the Kickoff for a longer reducing trek. Studies have shown that the woman who is successful in losing weight during the first few weeks of dieting is likely to stick with calorie counting until she has lost the pounds she needs to shed.

Of course this is, to a certain degree, a reflection of her own attitude, whether or not she is really serious about reducing. However, many women become discouraged if they do not see results fairly soon when dieting. They are apt to give the whole idea up for the time being, and maybe forever.

Today I am giving you the menus for tomorrow, the kick-off day for you if you have only five pounds to lose or if you want an encouraging start on a longer reducing effort. You are almost sure to have the items prescribed for breakfast on hand.

Another nice thing about the Trick AND Treat Diet is that you will enjoy it and you don't have to plan two sets of menus. You can make a few slight changes and use the diet for your family. I will tell you more about that tomorrow.

Here are the menus for Monday:

BREAKFAST
Six ounces orange juice.
One-half cup oatmeal.
Four ounces skim milk and two teaspoons sugar on oatmeal.
One slice of protein bread toast.
Black coffee.

LUNCHEON
Salad made of four tablespoons of cottage cheese, one medium tomato cut in chunks and one hard cooked egg, also cut into pieces. You can add three tablespoons of reducing dressing.

Two saltines.

DINNER

Shrimp cocktail (six medium-sized shrimp, one tablespoonful of chili sauce and lemon juice).

Four ounces baked ham (cut off fat).

One cup broccoli seasoned with lemon and paprika or thyme.

Orange custard.

If you would like to have the entire Trick AND Treat Diet in a small booklet, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Heighten Sophistication With Delicate Fragrance

By PENNY SAVER

How many women realize that "the height of fashion" involves, not only what you wear and how you wear it, but also whether or not you include perfume in your daily routine? Fashion experts will agree that a woman who is well dressed and who is wearing a nice scent will leave an impression in the mind of the people she meets which is somewhat modified in a woman who wears no scent.

From now until November 16 several shops are selling a well-known product for a reduction of 25 per cent.

Perfume, cologne, dusting powder, soap, talc, bath oil and spray mist in one fragrance are included in this sale.

Bath oil is put in the bath before running the water. This softens and smooths dry skin, turns blue in the water and leaves no bath tub ring.

Build up this scent with delicately perfumed soap and after-bath, follow it up with the dusting or talcum powder. Talcum powder has a coarser texture than the dusting powder and is combined with a deodorant.

The next step to fragrance beauty is the cooling effect of spray mist or cologne. These leave a lasting scent which needs only to be touched up occasionally through the day.

The final touch is perfume. Perfumes are not to be thought of as strong and overpowering, but, as light but lingering and subtle but assuring.

For the scent to last you from the day's start to its finish, use not just one but all of these items.

If these articles appeal to you, call Penny at 382-3131.

Wensley-Hunter Wedding

An Irish lace handkerchief, belonging to her grandmother, was carried by Margaret Victoria Anne Hunter when she exchanged marriage vows recently with Gordon Raymond Wensley.

Her floor-length gown of heavy satin brocade was fashioned with fitted bodice and full skirt. A crown of pearls and crystals held a chapel-length veil. Only jewelry was a pearl necklace, gift of the groom. Red roses and stephanotis were in her bouquet. White chrysanthemums and green foliage decorated Esquimalt United Church for the ceremony at which Rev. G. H. Turpin officiated.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Hunter, 909 Transit Road, and Mr. and Mrs. W. Wensley of Borden, Sask. Mr. Hunter gave his daughter in marriage.

Maid of honor Miss Margaret Turner and bridesmaid Miss Beverly Feather wore identical gowns of turquoise organza with white gloves and white ostrich plume headpieces. The flower girl, Miss Charlotte Barnes, wore a pale pink frock with white accessories. All carried bouquets of white carnations and wore drop pearl necklaces.

Lawrence Wensley was best man. Ushers were Thomas Reid and Gordon Hunter.

Joseph Lewis proposed the toast at a buffet dinner in the home of the bride's parents. The table was set with white chrysanthemums, a three-tier wedding cake and antique crystal candelabra.

Following a honeymoon up-Island, the couple is living at 122 Cambridge Street.

For travelling, the bride chose a teal blue homespun tweed suit with matching coat.

ONTARIO CAMPSITES

Signs Removed But Girls Find Them 'Luxurious'

By Judy Richardson

Former Times staffer Judy Richardson and her friend Linda Seales, who travelled across Canada by car, prior to leaving for overseas from Montreal, are now in England. You will soon be hearing more of their adventures from abroad.

The deputy district ranger was most helpful. "Go back to the highway, cross it and drive six miles up Blue Lake Road. The camp site's closed, there are no attendants, but you're welcome to use it."

Greatly relieved that we needn't drive another 100 miles to the next campsite marked on our map, Linda and I set off into the Ontario wilderness near Vermilion Bay.

Unlike Saskatchewan, the Ontario government hadn't torn down their campsites when they heard of our imminent arrival! Their method was equally effective, though. It was to remove all directional signs.

Even the ranger (deputy district) seemed party to this subversive move. Of Blue Lake Road there was no sign. Instead, the road to which he had directed us was Quebell's Road. And, before we had driven three miles, this branched right and left. Here, too, the signs had been removed.

Some five miles along the wrong road we gave up our individual fight to outwit the conspiring forces and appealed for help at a handy farmhouse. Here, the directions were more satisfactory.

In fact, we entirely forgave the Ontario government when, at last, we found the campsite. No one being around, we were able to drive our little car right into a convenient kitchen shelter.

A cement floor under the car wheels, a roof, six picnic tables to choose from and three stoves to cook in—it all added up to absolute luxury—with not even a 50-cent camping permit to pay!

Autumn may be the wrong time of year for campsites, but for travelling through Ontario, the timing is perfect. At every corner we marvelled at the varying colors of the leaves. Finally, after missing picture after picture, we bought postcards that gave some idea of what we'd seen.

However, the beauty palled one morning when we drove 100 miles without finding a station that sold our brand of gas. Not until we had used our reserve tank and our extra emergency container did we admit that, for once, we could have bought another brand.

We got out. Fortunately, we hadn't pushed too far before a family, heading west, stopped their car to ask what our trouble was. Shamefaced, we admitted that our gas tank was empty.

"I'll give you a push," was the driver's immediate reaction. "It's only about two miles east to the next station." Six miles later, we found a gas station, happy to take any brand that was offered.

And, like most good Samaritans who offer help on such occasions, our man drove away before we could do more than wave a thankful hand.

The engagement has been announced of Alma Barbara, daughter of Mrs. A. A. Alexander, 1047 Balmoral Road, and Mr. C. Alexander, Victoria, to Mr. Stephen Oscar Clark, son of Mrs. A. E. Clark and the late Mr. Clark, of Victoria. Wedding date will be announced later. (Jus-Rite Portrait Studio.)

Queen May Visit In 1964

LONDON (UPI) — Queen Elizabeth's first overseas trip after the birth of her baby expected early in 1964 may be to Canada next fall, palace sources reported today. A visit to the United States might then also develop.

There was no formal confirmation from Buckingham Palace, but normally well-informed royal circles noted that a visit to Canada by the Queen and Prince Philip late next year would seem indicated.

The sovereign's last visit to Canada was in 1959 when, with then U.S. President Eisenhower, she opened the St. Lawrence Seaway. Her brief touchdown at Vancouver on her way to Fiji and Australia last year was not rated a visit in the formal sense.

All the Queen's public duties have been cancelled until May when she will be resuming her normal round. A Canadian visit in all probability would not come until after her summer holiday at Balmoral.

Should the Canadian trip take place there almost certainly would be consideration of the Queen and Philip crossing the border for an American visit, although with an American presidential campaign underway it might be considered untimely.

President and Mrs. Kennedy in a sense "owe" the Queen an invitation since she has entertained them at Buckingham Palace and she has not yet been their guest.

Mrs. Hoult, wife of the assistant priest at Christ Church.

Married Recently Overseas

By ELIZABETH FORBES

An attractive new arrival in Victoria is Mrs. Roy Hoult, recent bride of the Christ Church Cathedral assistant priest.

Married four weeks ago in Liverpool, Eng., where she was born and grew up, this young Englishwoman is enjoying the experience of seeing Canada and the Pacific coast.

"My travels had been mainly on the Continent during holiday times," she tells you. "I never dreamed I would some day be living away-out here."

Dianne Riddell, whose father is a member of the civil service in Liverpool, met Roy Hoult when he was curate of the parish church at Walton, a suburb of the big city, and where the Riddells live.

BY BOAT, TRAIN

A year ago the curate came to Victoria to act as assistant to Dean Brian Whitlow. He flew back to England in September to claim his bride.

The young couple travelled to Canada by boat and then across the continent by train. With them came "two huge packing cases of wedding presents" and a number of Mrs. Hoult's favorite recordings.

Her favorites include Beethoven's Fifth, West Side Story and "some" modern music.

"I had to leave the record player at home," she says, "because of the different current used here."

Other hobbies are dramatics "mostly in props and make-up department" and ballet and tap dancing "when I was much younger."

"I eventually had to choose between dancing and studies," she explains.

BUSINESS WOMAN

Mrs. Hoult was in a Liverpool insurance office before she married. So it was easy for her to fit into an insurance office in Victoria.

"I'm working full time," she says in a soft, well-modulated voice, "and keeping house, too. It's an experience!"

The Hoult's are living in the bachelor apartment at the Dallas Road end of Douglas Street that Mr. Hoult occupied before his marriage. But they expect to move into "larger quarters" before the end of the year.

"We are going to stay on Dallas Road," Mrs. Hoult says with some determination. "We both love the sea." Then she adds a little hesitantly: "At least I did love it until we crossed the Atlantic. It was a terrible voyage—the ship was 12 hours late reaching Quebec."

Quite recently the newlyweds met the congregation at a parish party in Memorial Hall. "So many people were there," Mrs. Hoult says with a happy smile, "and they were so nice to me. I do hope I can remember all their names."

The washing action that dares to be different up down—330 times a minute

Why up and down? Less wear and tear on clothes. Only a Frigidaire Washer's agitator works this way. All Frigidaire Washers work up and down. Not sideways.

Why not sideways? Because sideways agitators wash by dragging clothes through the water. Back and forth. Back and forth. Too many pulled threads.

Up and down is kinder to your clothes. Safer. Instead of dragging clothes through the water, the Frigidaire agitator pumps sudsy water through the clothes. Keeps clothes entirely underwater too. Always circulating. Never letting them ride up.

And it works. Give even the heaviest, dirtiest denims 6600 ups and downs and they come thoroughly clean. But that's easy. The real test is with your dainty things. They don't take kindly to backs and forths. But they come clean gently with ups and downs. No drag. Anything you can put in water can be washed in the Frigidaire up-down Washer.

More facts: You can use liquid or powder washing aids. You can spin water out fast when washing's done, leaving clothes barely damp and saving drying time. Still more facts? See your Frigidaire Washer dealer. See his matching dryers, too.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

Before Making Garment Try On a Ready-Made Version

"Dear Eunice:

"I have just finished a beautiful mohair dress, but much to my horror, it makes me look like a stuffed teddy bear. I have seen this in fashion shows, pattern books, etc., and it always looks so lovely. How can I avoid this mistake again?"

MRS. P. G.

Dear Mrs. P. G.:

One of the most important parts of sewing is the selection of fabric and pattern, because it must be right for YOU as an individual. I gather from your letter that you are not tall and willowy, and unfortunately, these heavily textured fabrics do add pounds to us. This type of fabric would be best suited to a long coat and then, one that is rather slim, in order to be becoming on you.

If you are uncertain about the style of a pattern, or the fabric, shop around at the ready-to-wear departments first and try on a few, it won't look better on you just because you made it if it doesn't do anything for you in the finished garment.

Seated at the head table with Mrs. Schmelz were Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. A. Taylor, Pioneer president; Mrs. E. Longden, and Mrs. K. Jackson.

General conveners were Mrs. E. Crowther and Mrs. Schmelz. Other conveners included: Tea tickets, Mrs. J. Bowden; home cooking, Mrs. A. Brown; and Mrs. H. Graas; fancy work, Mrs. A. Ritchie and Mrs. K. Berry; superfluities, Mrs. Schmelz and Mrs. Taylor; candy and contests, Mrs. E. Harrison.

Tea convener Mrs. K. Jacques was assisted by Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. R. Thompson and Mrs. M. Chute.

Mrs. Ritchie and Mrs. Berry were in charge of table decorations.

Will Spend Honeymoon in South

After a honeymoon trip in the southern States, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Harvey Smith will make their home at 1850 El Sereno Drive.

Fr. M. J. McNamara officiated at the evening ceremony in St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church that united Lorraine Violet Bell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley M. Bell, 1683 McRae Avenue, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Smith, 4417 Tyndall Avenue.

Chrysanthemums in autumn shades decorated the church. Organist was Mrs. L. Gill. Irene Harris sang "The Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of beau de soie, fashioned with scoop neckline, bouffant skirt and lily point sleeves. The shoulder-length veil misted from a rhinestone tiara. Red roses and white stephanotis were in the bouquet.

A bell-skirted gown of copper-toned crystal charm was chosen by matron of honor, Mrs. Helen Knight, and similar gowns in tangerine crystal charm by the bridesmaids, the Misses Shannon Bell and Marilyn Palmer. White chrysanthemum bouquets and rhinestone tiaras completed their ensembles. Tiaras were a gift of the bride.

Norman Smith was best man and ushering guests were Roy Smith and David Allan.

Bridal roses flanked the wedding cake on the head table at a reception in the Carlton Club. Cake had been made by the bride's aunt and cousin, Mrs. G. Gardner and Mrs. M. Butler. As her going-away outfit, the bride chose a two-piece turquoise Italian knit suit, toning hat, black accessories and red rose corsage.

Ontario Prays For Rain

TORONTO (CP)—Weather experts see no signs of an end to Ontario's worst drought in 62 years, although showers fell on scattered areas of the province during the weekend.

A long-range weather prediction by Canadian and American forecasters indicates the drought may last for at least another two weeks.

Special prayer services were held Sunday in rural churches as hundreds of thousands of gallons of water continued to be hauled to drought-stricken farms.

Temperatures continued 15 to 20 degrees above normal and many areas in the southern part of the province set new records.

MONTREAL (CP)—Montrealers who have been enjoying the warmest, driest and sunniest October on record can look forward hopefully to more of the same for another three weeks.

Forecasters say the long-range outlook is for "unseasonably warm" and dry weather right into the middle of November.

ACCUSED IN SLAYING OF WIFE

'Killing-for-Hire' Trial Puts Lawyer on Stand

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—T. Eugene Thompson, a dapper St. Paul lawyer, goes on trial today for first-degree murder in what the state claims was the "killing-for-hire" death of his wife.

The case got its start the morning of March 6 when Carol Thompson, 34, battered and slashed, stumbled through snow to a neighbor's home for help. She had been bludgeoned repeatedly with a gun butt and slashed with a knife taken from her own kitchen.

The wounded mother of four was able to say only "a man did it," then lapsed into unconsciousness. Despite emergency surgery, she died four hours later in hospital.

The state charges that Thompson entered into a conspiracy with two others to effect the death of his wife for the $1,000,000 in insurance that was carried on her.

William Randall, Ramsey County (St. Paul) attorney, said that the state would seek to prove that Thompson made contact with Norman Mastrian, 39, former Minneapolis boxer, as the payoff man for the money—reputed to be $2,500—that Dick W. C. Anderson, 35, one-time Minneapolis salesman, received for the actual killing.

THOMPSON POSTS BOND
Both Mastrian and Anderson are jailed in lieu of $100,000 bond. Thompson posted that amount and was freed after six days in a cell.

The first break in the case came from one of the hand-fashioned grips of the pistol used to bludgeon Mrs. Thompson. In a lengthy investigation, police linked it to a Minneapolis burglary and the owner of the weapon identified it.

The weapon later was traced to Anderson, who was arrested at a motel in Phoenix, Ariz., and Randall said that Anderson subsequently made a statement admitting the killing. Thompson was arrested June 21, just 90 minutes after officers said Anderson had completed his story.

Since then, there has been a continuing series of legal manoeuvres, including a change of venue from St. Paul to Minneapolis, granted by the Minnesota Supreme Court on grounds Thompson could not have received a fair trial due to publicity about the case in his home city.

3 Duck Hunters Found Guilty Of Late Shooting

Two duck hunters were fined and a third was forbidden to hunt for the balance of the season after they were found guilty in Sooke RCMP court of shooting after dark.

James Braithwaite, 48, Helmsken and David Sneddon, 303 Gull, were each fined $10 and costs.

A juvenile who was with them was forbidden to hunt for the rest of the season.

The three were discovered at Billings Spit, near the mouth of the Sooke River, shooting more than half an hour after sundown.

VERTICAL TAKE-OFF ALL-PURPOSE JET

Builders of Luftwaffe Work on New Air Force

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP)—The struggling German aircraft industry's hopes hinge largely on a new fighter plane being developed by men who helped build the once-mighty Nazi air force.

The country's first major post-war aeronautics project is an all-purpose jet to take off vertically, then make the transition to horizontal flight. Called the VJ-101, it is to reach twice the speed of sound.

Industry—and the West German defence department—hope this VJ-101 will replace the U.S.-designed F-104 Starfighter and the Italian Fiat G-91, now mainstays of the country's new air force.

The VJ-101 was designed by a group called Development Ring South, formed by the firms of Willy Messerschmidt and Ernst Heinkel in co-operation with Ludwig Boelkow Developments Limited. Boelkow, 51, designed fighters for Messerschmidt during the Second World War.

The West German defence department has budgeted $87,500,000 to develop the vertical take-off fighter. So far it rises but has not gone on to horizontal flight.

The German aircraft industry is only a shadow of its old self, with 32,000 men.

Prof. Karl Thalan, president of the German Federation of Aeronautics Industries, likes to recall that German engineers had the first rocket plane in the air in 1937 and the first jet air-borne in 1939.

In the early stages of the war Germany's Luftwaffe helped Hitler conquer much of Europe. In 1944, 1,100,000 people working in Germany's aircraft industry made 48,000 war planes including the first jet fighter, the Messerschmidt 262.

For 10 years Germany was barred from setting up an aircraft industry.

The ban was lifted when West German sovereignty was restored in 1955.

NEW BED TAX NIGHTMARE TO HOTELMEN

VANCOUVER (CP)—The B.C. Hotels' Association warned Sunday that a bed tax on Vancouver hotels and motels will threaten the city's attraction for tourists. William Wainwright, association president, said the city already is bypassed by too many Americans heading for Vancouver Island.

The bed tax is a suggestion now before city council. Mr. Wainwright suggested in a statement issued during the annual meeting that if more money is needed for tourist promotion an extra cent should be added to the gasoline tax.

"Why bite the hand of the tourist after so much money is spent in an effort to attract him here?"

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

One of this column's favorite guys has always been and still is Steve Allen. The tall, talented entrepreneur of entertainment has weathered many a TV storm and is still strongly in action. His timely observations on the world around him have not always found favor but he must be given credit for speaking his convictions.

This past summer Allen and his family toured Germany, Denmark, Finland and Russia. On his show, Tuesday night at 11:30 on Channels 6 and 8, he'll begin the first of a series of conversations about his recent trip, his reactions as a visitor to Moscow and his view of the Russian man-in-the-street. On succeeding programs, he'll share his family's experiences in Copenhagen and Berlin.

Allen prepared himself for the trip by reading books on the history and cultures of all of the countries he was to visit. This cross-reference between his research and on-the-spot observation will allow him to present a number of reactions to questions his audience might ask about people living under Communism.

His discourses on places, peoples and things will be augmented by films and slides.

If you haven't yet been exposed to the Allen image then this would be a good excuse for sitting up later than usual on a weekday night.

TID BITS: ABC-TV's attempt to study the aims and attitudes of women in eight nations in the Friday documentary special "The World's Girls" turned out to be 60 minutes of fluff and generalities. There wasn't much substance to the overall program. Let's face it, there is really nothing attractive about women analyzing the obvious about themselves.

Whew! The same network renewed the Jimmy Dean series for another 13 weeks in addition to the first 13. This should settle, once and for all, the doubt surrounding the show.

John Mills and daughter Hayley make their joint television debut on Danny Kaye's Jan. 22 show. They will re-enact a scene from "The Chalk Garden"...

Desilu executives are still chortling at the Valachi hearings in Washington, recalling the complaints it received for tabbing gangsters with Italian names on "The Untouchables." The reruns of the series, by the way, have stirred no complaints on that point, or the violence. Evidently there's no publicity to be reaped in a campaign against reruns.

According to Variety, the show business newspaper, the three major networks in the U.S. would like Barry Goldwater and Nelson Rockefeller to debate their policies on television.

Quentin Reynolds will write and narrate the 90-minute special, "Olympiad-1964," to break just before the games open in Tokyo.

City, Duncan Audiences Astounded by Violinist

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON

Even a cautious critic is tempted to cry "genius" when confronted with such an abundance of youthful talent as revealed by Otto Armin, this weekend's 21-year-old Victoria Symphony soloist.

The Indiana University student has astounded and delighted two audiences—at Duncan on Friday night and Sunday afternoon at the Royal—and will undoubtedly have the same effect when the concert is repeated tonight at 8:30 at the Royal.

Nevertheless, even the exciting qualities of the guest artist do not entirely steal the show on this occasion. The orchestra offers some not inconsiderable highlights of its own under the tautly expressive guidance of Otto-Werner Mueller.

In its supporting role with Mr. Armin in the Paganini Concerto No. 1, and Chausson "Poème," it performed well Sunday, providing a balanced, entirely sympathetic partnership.

Mr. Mueller's understanding of the intricate relationship between soloist and accompaniment could be best appreciated in the Chausson, where delicacy and restraint are pre-eminent.

As a solo violinist Mr. Armin already possesses so much that one is awed by the possibilities that the years ahead may invoke.

NO PROBLEMS

The Paganini Concerto, of which only the first movement was played, is purely and simply a virtuoso's show piece. It appeared to present nothing in the way of problems for the young artist.

With quiet composure his agile left hand and smoothly fluent bow made light of the most formidable passages.

Phrases in luminous harmonics, finger-shattering intervals, double stopping and the extensive cadenza at the end of the movement, all gave striking testimony to Mr. Armin's technical maturity.

SENSE OF POETRY

Beauty of tone—greater richness and depth—will be added in due course—was evident from the first note and even in the Paganini sense of poetry warmed the virtuosic display.

This quality, when he came to the Chausson, was much in evidence. Beautifully phrased, here was a performance full of charm and atmosphere, from a thoughtful and sensitive musician.

Mr. Mueller opens the concert with a very brief prelude to the Moussorgsky opera, "Khovanashchina," a mood-color piece that had the effect of whetting one's appetite.

TOUR DE FORCE

But the orchestral major of the Tschalkowsky's impassioned Sixth Symphony, and this, overcoming a sense of doubt at the opening, by the time the second movement arrived had settled down and was going well. It went on to become something of a tour de force for the Victoria Symphony.

In the surging march of the third movement, Mr. Mueller's gift for urging the orchestral forces to splendid dynamic utterance while keeping the most absolute control, provided the pulse-stirring climax of a good afternoon.

It was not surprising that the audience, schooled only to applaud at conclusion of the fourth movement, burst into spontaneous applause at the third movement end.

This is a concert by no means to be missed and certainly deserves a full house tonight.

Separatism Hits Jaycees

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP)—The national executive of the Canadian Junior Chamber of Commerce Sunday rejected a demand by 9,000 province of Quebec members for a constitutional separation of the body.

The executive said such a reorganization would "serve to divide rather than unite the young men of Canada."

Some delegates to the meeting said Sunday night that they doubt the Quebec members making up half the numerical strength of the junior chamber will long remain in the organization.

MATTICK TO RUN FOR COUNCIL

Farmer William Mattick has announced he will run for Saanich council in December.

He says he hopes to help make Saanich Canada's foremost municipality, "the place to come to."

Mr. Mattick says he is independent and won't take sides with anyone.

He feels he knows Saanich better than most people, having farmed in several parts of the municipality.

Leading citizens join in mass Salvation Army rally.

'Never Afraid of Danger ... Opportunity Welcomed'

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

The Salvation Army's great example of service to humanity through Christ has saved souls in 86 countries of the world. Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes told a citizens' rally of more than 900 persons in Victoria High School auditorium Sunday afternoon.

"There is an old Chinese proverb 'Crisis is danger plus opportunity.' Salvationists have never been afraid of danger and they have always welcomed opportunity."

His Honor spoke from a crowded, brightly-lit platform draped with the flags of many nations, banked by chrysanthemums and enlivened by the vivid scarlet tunics of the 50-piece Vancouver-Temple Band and the blue uniforms of the Mount Pleasant Songsters.

Others—Judge Montague Drake, Archdeacon J. W. Forth and Ald. C. M. Parrott (representing Mayor R. B. Wilson)—paid tribute to the Salvation Army. And Capt. Ernie Miller, famed Army baritone from Chicago, lifted all hearts with his inspirational singing.

FIRST HERE

The big public rally was the climax to a three-day celebration—the Army's 76th Pacific Coast Congress and the first to be held in Victoria. Some 300 Salvationists from Vancouver Island and the mainland attended.

Mr. Pearkes received a rousing reception after Commissioner W. Wycliffe Booth, territorial commander of the Salvation Army in Canada and Bermuda, had said:

"Let us take the lieutenant-governor to our hearts!"

Mr. Pearkes spoke of the Army's great service to humanity in peace and war.

AT THE FRONT

"I remember leading a company of weary, mud-spattered men out of the trenches during the battles on the Somme, and we had come only a short distance from the front-line when we came upon a Salvation Army establishment."

"The salvationists were as weary and dirty as ourselves, but they were too busy handing out food and hot cocoa to think about their weariness..."

"Men of all the fighting service."

Radio Station Shot Up By Burglars

DAWSON CREEK, B.C. (CP)—Thieves broke into the studios of radio station CJDC, Dawson Creek, Friday night and fired nine shots from a .22-calibre weapon in the main studio and control rooms.

Five bullets struck a double plate glass window, another a wall and three were aimed at the master control board. The station, however, was able to continue broadcasting Saturday night.

The thieves also stole about $2,000 worth of cameras from the administration offices. Damage caused by the break-ins was estimated at about $1,000.

$500 Profit Boost At Lantern Festival

Chinatown's Lions' Club eighth annual Lantern Festival held Saturday in Central Junior High School, broke all records.

Festival chairman Bill Lowe estimated a net profit of $2,500—$500 more than last year.

The affair, sponsored annually to raise funds for club charities, was attended by more than 1,000.

A smorgasbord, ricksha rides, Chinese curio stall and a Vancouver dance troupe provided entertainment.

ices can tell of the innumerable kindnesses they have received from the Salvation Army. And with all the wonderful things they do for our physical welfare, they never forget the spiritual side.

"It is by their great example in daily living that the Army carries out its main task of saving souls."

PIONEERS HELPED

Mr. Pearkes recalled earlier days when the Army assisted B.C. pioneers in mines and railway camps and kept up its welfare services in flood and disaster. Twenty-seven men and women from the Salvation Army's Matson Sunset Lodge at Esquimalt climbed 28 steps to attend the rally.

Spirited music by Vancouver Temple Band, melodious choral ensembles by the Mount Pleasant Songsters and a song narrative, David and Goliath, by Capt. Ernie Miller built up the general enthusiasm.

GREAT FILM

"A great film could be made around the founder of the Salvation Army," said Commissioner Booth, in reference to his grandfather, General William Booth, who began the movement in 1865.

Commissioner Booth said he had been invited to collaborate on a film script, but did not yet know what the outcome would be.

"Such a film would have epic qualities—it could be a great character study."

He recalled how his grandfather had been stoned, pelted with vegetables and called "foul names" during the early days of the movement. But like the acorn it had grown into a mighty oak tree whose branches had spread over the world.

"Our greatest need is for dedicated young men and women who will join in our crusade."

Cultural Centre Proposed As 1967 Ottawa Project

OTTAWA (CP)—A $9,000,000 Dominion Consultant Associates studio theatre and a 100-seat salon for presentations of the visual arts and for smaller recitals, meetings and receptions. Construction would begin in the spring of 1965 with the completion date set for March 1, 1967.

Should the government approve the scheme as a centennial project, the arts centre might become eligible for a grant from the $100,000,000 federal centenary fund. Once in operation, it would not be expected to be a money-making proposition.

The report, costing $20,000, was financed by the National Capital Commission, the Canadian Council, business enterprises, organizations and individuals.

The report was prepared by a 1,100-seat theatre, a 350-seat

RECOMMENDS SITE

Site of the proposed centre would be at St. Patrick and Sussex streets, close to the royal mint and about half-a-mile from Confederation Square. The existing war museum and a government hostel for female civil servants would have to be removed.

The proposed centre would consist of a single building, in which would be the opera house, a 1,100-seat theatre, a 350-seat

TEACHER EXPLAINS STRAPPING

'He Thought It Was Funny'

KAMLOOPS (CP)—A school teacher testified Saturday he strapped 12-year-old Tommy Goodwin because the boy did not appear contrite after earlier punishment.

Bryan William Kirwan, charged with assault causing bodily harm, said he strapped Tommy nine times across one hand, 12 times across the other. After the first few strokes, he said, Tommy appeared to think it funny and did not apologize.

Kirwan said he had decided on punishment after the boy let air out of the tires of his car, pasted a notice on one window and covered the other in paste, all on the last day of school in June.

He originally ordered Tommy to clean off the car windows and pump up the tire, but realized this was not punishment because Tommy thought he was the star attraction to other children around the school. Kirwan said he had been teaching five years, and had strapped children two or three times a year.

Dr. Ian D. Findlay, medical health officer, said there appeared to be no possibility of permanent damage to the hands from the strap, which he described as lighter than those used in Scottish schools he had attended.

Tommy's father testified earlier in the district court hearing that the hands were "literally black and blue" and their appearance was so nauseating he could not eat.

The hearing was adjourned to Nov. 2 before Magistrate D. M. MacDonald.

B.C. Vehicle Tax Below Average

Average cost for provincial taxes and licences to operate a motor vehicle in B.C. last year was $103 compared with $99 in 1961, according to the bureau of statistics. Country-wide average was $115 with New Brunswick highest at $139 and Yukon and Northwest Territories lowest at $62.

Provincial governments collected $665,404,000 in 1962 from fuel, taxes and licences, up 5.5 per cent from the previous year.

CPR CRUISES ON PACIFIC?

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Canadian Pacific Railway may use its Atlantic Empress ships for winter cruises in the Pacific.

President N. R. Crump said during the weekend that the ships may be used to offer cruises between Vancouver and Japan, Hong Kong and other Far East ports.

The ships now are used on the trans-Atlantic run except in winter months when they cruise between New York and the Caribbean.

But 225 cruises will be offered from New York this year, Mr. Crump said, adding "that field may be a bit too crowded."

FUMES KILL 3 CREWMEN ON TANKER

PORT STANLEY, Ont. (CP)—Three Italian seamen were killed by fumes aboard an oil tanker early today, two of them as they tried to rescue their shipmate.

Their bodies were found by crew members wearing oxygen masks, who entered a coffer dam between two holds on the tanker East River to search for them.

Dead are boatswain Naso Antonio, about 60, chief fireman Gilberto Ciro, 45, and fireman Ederi Guiseppe, 25.

SIU DISPUTE

Ship Flees Pickets

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Canadian grain carrier J. N. McWatters moved to more hospitable home waters Sunday after longshoremen at Superior, Wis., refused to complete the job of filling her holds.

The ship was a victim of a union protest against the Canadian government's newly imposed trusteeship over five Canadian maritime unions, including the Seafarers' International Union, a branch of the SIU of North America (AFL-CIO).

The McWatters, owned by Scott Misener Steamships Limited of Port Colborne, Ont., sailed to Port Arthur, Ont., to add another 20,000 tons of grain to the 5,000 the Superior longshoremen placed in her holds before stopping loading in sympathy with the SIU.

The SIU had picketed the McWatters at Superior after her arrival Thursday, until stopped by a temporary injunction Friday night.

The next morning, longshoremen reported for duty, but refused to continue loading what they described as a "hot ship."

CONTINUE PROTEST

In Detroit, Al Tanner, vice-president of the SIU of North America, said the SIU program of picketing Canadian ships would last "indefinitely." He said the trusteeship is a "threat to free trade unionism."

In Chicago, grain handlers continued to refuse to load the John Eriessson, owned by Upper Lakes Shipping Limited of Toronto. The SIU has been engaged in a long feud with Upper Lakes since it hired Canadian Maritime Union (CLC) crews for its ships last year in place of SIU sailors.

The Eriessson, a 67-year-old ship, has been trying to get a load of grain at Chicago since early October, but grain trimmers have consistently refused to load her despite court actions, fines and threats of new and larger fines.

The SIU planned to picket a second Canadian ship in Buffalo today.

A spokesman for the SIU said the union's small outboard boat would picket the Tecumseh, a Canadian ore carrier due to unload today at the Republic Steel Company.

The boat Sunday picketed another Canadian ore carrier, the Algosteel. The ship loaded 10,000 tons of ore at a Bethlehem Steel Company dock in nearby Lackawanna, however, then left the harbor.

Nikita Quits But U.S. Still Aiming at Moon

WASHINGTON (AP)—It's full speed ahead for the U.S. program to land a man on the moon in this decade.

That's the way American space officials greeted the news from Moscow that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev apparently has pulled his country out of any moon race.

Senator Clinton P. Anderson, chairman of the Senate space committee, agreed. "First of all, I do not believe we should develop our space programs on the basis of the press statements of Mr. Khrushchev," the New Mexico Democrat told The Associated Press.

However, there were signs elsewhere that the Russian leader's move may provide ammunition for American critics of heavy space spending.

In an interview Saturday night in Moscow with touring journalists, Khrushchev declared: "At present we are not planning manned moon flights."

"I have read a report to the effect that the Americans want to land a man on the moon by 1970. Well, I wish them success. And we shall watch how they fly there, how they come to earth, or rather come to moon, and this is the main thing."

Another angle to this moon travel, of course, would be to make sure the Astronauts' International Union or something didn't call a strike and leave 'em stranded up there.

Heavy Damage Forces Return

By PETE LOUDON

A howling gale battered a private yacht off Victoria Sunday, threatening the lives of her amateur crew and 34 University of Washington students.

The 199-ton Seattle yacht Aquilo was forced back to harbor here, her superstructure splintered, most of her passengers sick and wallowing in water that poured through her hatches.

The ship's piano was smashed, the fridge and galley range toppled.

Her forward bulwarks were smashed to matchwood, her bow canopy torn partly away.

Panes of glass were smashed. Rigging tore loose and trailed overboard. Below decks, she was sodden.

Her owner and skipper, University of Washington professor and "Saturday sailor" John

Scott Campbell was taking her out again before noon.

But most of the passengers shipped out aboard the Port Angeles ferry Coho, or by air, to get back to classes.

Professor Campbell and two of his passengers, Jacques Cubille and William Flyg, were interviewed.

They were coach and player respectively, of a university rugby team which came here to play weekend games with Royal Roads and University of Victoria teams.

Refrigerator Wedged Across Bow

"The piano fell over and smashed, the stove and fridge broke loose. The fridge wedged across a bow but he was so sick he didn't notice."

Most of us were sick," they said. "But everyone left the cabins and came to the upper deck."

"There were hundreds of life jackets, but no one wanted to be the first to wear one and cause a panic," they added.

Had they taken to the two small boats, they might have had difficulty. Only one of them was rigged for launching this morning. The lines were gone from the davits on the other.

Professor Campbell said:

"Solid water was coming over the bow."

"We were plunging up and down an easy 25 feet."

"The water flowed along the promenade deck a foot and a half deep."

"Tremendous masses of water were hitting the glass on the pilothouse. I am surprised they didn't shatter."

The near tragedy was a culmination of small delaying events, including the loss of a suitcase overboard, while Aquilo still lay alongside the Belleville St. CPR wharf here.

Aquilo came here Saturday. She is becoming a familiar sight here since Prof. Campbell bought her and began her restoration recently.

Dream Fulfilled for Professor

She was laid down and launched at Boston, Mass., 62 years ago, 161 feet long, 199 tons. Once owned by B. T. Rogers, the sugar king, she once made her way around the Horn. She delivered Victoria-based soldiers to Cape Lazo, near Comox, in the First World War.

The professor bought her to fulfill a dream. Being one ton less than 200, a master's papers aren't required. He patched her up with a budget so limited he couldn't afford hull insurance — premiums $3,500 a year.

Last week some of his students asked him to bring their

The team, coaches and a group of girls came here with the professor and his three-man crew, all non-professionals.

ELEVATOR CABLES SNAP

74 Miners Survive Plunge

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI)—Two elevator cages carrying 74 men plunged out of control into the depths of a South African gold mine today. Hours later, mine officials reported that all 74 were safe and uninjured.

The cages dropped into the mine at Carletonville, 50 miles from here, when a cable snapped.

Fifty-four men trapped at the 1,000 foot level were brought to the surface. The remaining 20, at the 5,000-foot level, signalled with their flashlights that they were all right, and crews were trying to bring them up in a rescue elevator.

A white miner, who was injured on the surface when the ore carrier cable snapped and struck him, died of injuries received in the accident.

The two cages plunged down the mine shaft when ore-carrying cages on their way up failed to stop and caused the lifting cable to snap.

The downward plunge of the two cages was halted eventually by emergency gear—the upper one stopped at 1,000 feet and the lower at 5,000 feet.

He urged all the peoples of the world to struggle to bring this about.

LAMARSH:

Pension Plan 'Going Ahead'

OTTAWA (CP)—Health Minister LaMarsh said today the government hopes to proceed with the Canada Pension Plan at this session of Parliament or, if that proves impossible, "at the beginning of the year—at the next session."

She criticized newspaper stories and "completely baseless" headlines to the effect that the plan, based on equal contributions from employees and employers, will be shelved.

"Let there be no mistake about it—this is a basic promise of this Liberal administration," she told a meeting of the National Liberal Women's Federation.

Miss LaMarsh said she hopes that now that Quebec has "opted out" of the federal scheme, Ontario will decide that the compulsory pension legislation it adopted last year—but has not yet enacted—will be made voluntary so that the Canada Pension Plan can be applied all across the country.

Hitting back at the trust and insurance companies that have opposed the plan, Miss LaMarsh said "the same people have spoken out against every social advance in this country," the last occasion being the federal-provincial program of hospital insurance.

"This is not a party of special interests," she said. "It will not be impeded by those who have special interests."

The minister said those operating private pension plans—which left 72 per cent of the labor force, including agricultural workers, uncovered—need not fear for their business in the future.

The experience in every other country that has adopted such legislation is that their business has increased, she said.

TOO MANY GIRLS

Mr. Winterbottom Just Kept Running

CLIFTON, England (AP)—An American male has disappeared from a beautician's course he was taking with 21 girls, officials at the Henlow Grange Beauty Farm reported today.

He is Russell Winterbottom, 37, from Santa Barbara, Calif.

"Mr. Winterbottom is a very shy man," said an official.

Winterbottom joined the course five weeks ago and paid 150 guineas ($472) for a year's tuition. He disappeared Oct. 17 after setting off for a run in a track suit.

Officials at the farm said they became worried and notified police, who are searching for the American with tracker dogs. Winterbottom left all his possessions, including an automobile, his suits and shirts, his passport, a cheque book and some loose change.

"We are completely baffled," said an official. "Mr. Winterbottom was getting on very well. He said he wanted to train to be a top class beautician."

The farm is run by Mrs. Leida Costigan, an Estonian-born beauty specialist. Mil-lionaires, aristocrats and show business stars are among her clients. Winterbottom was not the first male student to sign on for a course.

Guests at the health farm pay up to £50 ($150) a week for treatment, which includes Turkish baths, diet, manicures and massage. Male clients lounge in Roman togas on sun porches sipping fruit juice.

Chrysler Was Big Highlight

By IAN MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

"I've got nothing to do and nowhere to go" might have been the theme song of Canadian stock markets this week as prices moved erratically and investors became increasingly selective in their buying.

Brokers a week ago predicted a consolidation period or even a minor correction and activity last week appeared to uphold this prediction. However, the long-term outlook remained favorable.

The Toronto industrial index backtracked the first two days of the week, but Wednesday the market began to recover and the index closed on the plus side for the rest of the week.

Profit-taking on certain key issues helped to drive the market lower Monday, but the current picture remained strong although patchy in places.

CHRYSLER HITS PEAK

Chrysler Corporation helped boost the market Thursday when it hit a peak of $109 before settling back to $107.75 following an announcement by the company that shareholders will be asked to approve a share on a two-for-one basis scheduled for Dec. 20. The proposal will also have the effect of doubling the quarterly dividend.

Automotive stocks generally were strong, with General Motors Corporation trading heavily towards the end of the week, closing Friday at $4.25 at $90.

Massey-Ferguson was another notable performer. The issue finally broke the $16 mark to set a new high of $16.50 on heavy trading.

Other sectors of the industrial board were easier although all had strong points.

Senior metals suffered with fears that the U.S. government might clamp down on rising steel prices, but tension had eased by the end of the week. Bethlehem Copper Corporation Ltd. had a good week among junior metals, setting an all time high of $6.60. A week ago the company announced rising earnings.

SPECULATIVES ACTIVE

Speculative mines were active and helped boost the overall volume to a respectable level. However, despite occasional spurts in one or two issues, no unusual discoveries were announced.

The foreign market traded steadily all week.

Figures Back Kennedy Bid For New Securities Levy

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

First full report on the effect of the Kennedy equalization tax proposal on foreign securities sales in the U.S. has come from the Securities Exchange Commission.

It shows that new securities offered for sale by foreign corporations dropped sharply in the third quarter of the year.

—Aug. 1 to Sept. 30—to only $93 million compared with $435 million in the preceding quarter. However, the figure for the third quarter was still well above the same quarter of 1962 when sales hit only $56 million.

The SEC report also shows that sales of foreign corporate securities in the U.S. ran up to $656 million for the first three-quarters of the year compared with only $560 million in all of 1962.

The trend this year up to Sept. 30 certainly seems to back up American government fears that foreign borrowing threats posed a considerable threat to U.S. balance of payment problems and the SEC's figures may reinforce the administration's arguments in getting at least the major part of the securities tax through Congress.

Foreign government securities offerings in the U.S. in the third quarter totalled $145 million compared with $180 million in the April 1-June 30 period. Most of the offerings in the third quarter had been planned before the Kennedy proposal was estimated.

The SEC estimated total new corporate issues offered in the U.S., both foreign and domestic, at $2.4 billion in the third quarter this year. A decline in capital expansion financing and refinancing was noted, particularly in gas and electric utilities.

While indicators showed the B.C. economy at a high level during the summer months, some declines were noted in the construction and mining sectors, according to the October bulletin of business activity issued by the provincial bureau of economics and statistics.

At 35 per cent increase in copper production during June, for instance, was offset by lower outputs of lead and zinc with the result that total production of base metals was down nine per cent from June last year. Cumulative production for the half year, however, was almost unchanged from last year. Silver production in June was off 16 per cent, iron ore up six per cent, crude oil up 136 per cent, natural gas down 10 per cent and coal up 11 per cent.

The value of building permits issued in August was $17,229,000, only about half the total for the preceding month and down about 43 per cent from the same month last year. Reflecting the high level of housing construction in the first half of this year, August completions were 42 per cent higher than the same month last year.

In other lines, farm cash income to the end of June was $55.6 million, slightly higher than last year. At the end of July labor income reached a cumulative total of 1.3 billion dollars, an increase of seven per cent over the first seven months last year. Exports during July rose nine per cent and were six per cent higher for the first seven months over last year. Retail sales in July were up six per cent with motor vehicle sales up 20 per cent.

Forest industry production figures were mixed. Sawmill production was up 10 per cent in July while in August there was a nine per cent increase in newsprint production, a four per cent decrease in other papers and paper boards and a three per cent increase in pulp.

Can. Collieries Sawmill Boosts Sales, Profits
VANCOUVER (CP)—Operations of its new Empire Lumber mill increased sales by 20 per cent and net profit by 15 per cent during the first six months of 1963 over the same period of 1962, reports Canadian Collieries Resources Ltd.

Sales figures were $13,862,400 compared with $11,524,200. Net profit was $942,500 after provision for payment of $110,000 in income taxes. This was an increase of $123,000 over $819,500 paid for the same period last year when no income tax was payable.

President Norman R. Whitall said in a report that imposition of the sales tax on building materials has had a restrictive effect on the domestic market. It has adversely affected operating costs and capital costs of replacing or adding to produce capacity, he said.

Mr. Crump returned to Vancouver Friday from a five-day visit to Japan and a two-day visit to Hong Kong.

The CPR president described the Tokaido line, which will run 325 miles from Tokyo to Osaka, as the most advanced piece of railroad in the world. The research work and equipment cost the line $1,000,000,000.

Bonner Boosts B.C. Wood-Frame Building

LONDON (CP)—Attorney-General R. W. Bonner of British Columbia, heading a housing mission from that province, said Sunday he thinks Canadian-style timber frame housing can make a contribution towards solving Britain's housing problem.

The 24-member mission arrived by air from Canada for a three-week visit.

B. M. Hoffmeister, president of the Council of Forest Industries of B.C., is deputy leader. The mission includes technical specialists in design, construction and finance.

"I understand Britain has a housing problem on her hands," Bonner said. "Government attention now is focussed on increased productivity."

"Our mission has come over especially to study the whole problem in the belief that timber-frame construction along Canadian lines and employing wood products produced in British Columbia can make a useful contribution."

He said this view was based on an "extremely favorable" report on Canadian housing building methods issued by a British housing mission that visited Canada.

BRITAIN, ECM CLOSER

THE HAGUE, The Netherlands (AP)—Britain moved into closer contact with the European Common Market Saturday with a proposal for a joint British-Common Market strategy for forthcoming tariff negotiations.

At the end of their two-day meeting here the Western European Union ministers agreed on the consultations between the British and the Common Market's executive commission on how to handle the so-called "Kennedy round" of tariff negotiations next May in Geneva under the auspices of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

WEEK IN BUSINESS

New Steel Probe Brings Shudders

By ROGER LANE

NEW YORK (AP)—The U.S. government sent a shiver through an otherwise buoyant economy last week by preparing a broad study of steel industry pricing practices.

Disclosure of the federal grand jury inquiry sent prices of steel stocks tumbling and shook up the stock market generally.

It prompted some business leaders outside steel to question whether the move indicated a new outbreak of government-business hostility, although many executives viewed it with much less concern.

Those who feared the worst saw a parallel with the Kennedy administration's crack-down 18 months ago against steel firms that posted price increases April 10-12, 1962, then withdrew them. Others found little basis for comparison.

Steel manufacturers reacted hardly at all.

GOOD SIGNS

Meantime, there were good economic signs and a sparse scattered of troubling events.

Machine tool orders and factory orders for durable goods, two sensitive yardsticks of business ahead, bounded upward. The stock market posted a new high before news came of the steel price investigation.

Record high corporate profit reports covering the first nine months of the year poured in. The commerce department pegged the gross national product output of U.S. goods and services, at an unprecedented annual rate of $388,500,000,000 in the July-September quarter.

The commerce department also issued licences for 1,400,000 bushels of corn to Hungary. The big U.S. grain deal, neared the brass-tacks stage, and a first export licence for shipment of 1,200,000 bushels of wheat to Hungary was issued by the government.

TRADE FALTERS

On the less encouraging side, retail trade was reported faltering in some sections of the country, a victim of too-warm autumn weather.

Signs of possible labor strife appeared in the auto industry. This situation remained to be clarified.

CPR CHIEF GIVEN FAST RIDE

VANCOUVER (CP)—CPR president Norris R. Crump rode in the cab of a new, experimental train at 130 miles an hour during a visit to Japan, but said Friday he doesn't see any application of that speed to his company's operations in Canada.

Mr. Crump returned to Vancouver Friday from a five-day visit to Japan and a two-day visit to Hong Kong.

The CPR president described the Tokaido line, which will run 325 miles from Tokyo to Osaka, as the most advanced piece of railroad in the world. The research work and equipment cost the line $1,000,000,000.

WRENETTES SHOW WHY

They're the Nation's Best

Forty teen-aged girls of the Patricia Dufour Navy League Wrenette Corps gave evidence in a parade in the Bay Street Armory Sunday afternoon of the proficiency which won them a much-coveted national award.

Joining the wrenettes in the impressive ceremony, which was watched by hundreds of guests, including several up-island Navy League officials and many parents, were Rainbow Sea Cadets and Admiral Rayner Navy League Cadets. All three corps are operated by the Victoria Branch of the Navy League of Canada.

SILVER TROPHY
Denis W. Brown, national vice-president of the Navy League of Canada, presented the silver trophy for "the most proficient wrenette corps in Canada" to Mrs. Pat Dufour, Victoria branch president, after whom the corps is named.

Mrs. Dufour congratulated the corps and presented the trophy to PO Joan Marshall, the corps' gunnery instructor. A Navy League warrant, authorizing the corps as an official unit of the organization, was presented to Lieut. Audrey Stevens, corps' commanding officer.

With Mrs. Dufour and Mr. Brown on the saluting dais were Lieut. E. S. Price, RCSC, commanding officer of Rainbow Cadets, and Lt. Cmdr. E. S. Cassels, NLC, commanding officer of the Admiral Rayner Corps.

SLOW MARCH
Climax of the ceremony came when Mrs. Dufour presented carrying colors to her corps. In true "seaman-like" manner, the wrenette color party paraded their colors at the slow march, first to their own corps, then to the divisions of the Rainbow Royal Canadian Sea Cadets and Admiral Rayner Navy League Cadets.

Mrs. Dufour took the salute, when following the parade of the colors, the three corps joined in a march-past. Rainbow's Sea Cadet band was in attendance.

Nuclear Ships 'Best Bet' For Canada

Groos Pressing For New Program

A nuclear shipbuilding program was advocated by Victoria MP David Groos today to replace the plan for new frigates scrapped by Ottawa.

He said Canada's defence needs could be best served by either submarines or other vessels with nuclear power. Cancellation of the $374,000,000 frigate plan was a hard blow to B.C.'s shipyards. They expressed fears of unemployment.

But the federal government has no intention of neglecting the shipyards, said Mr. Groos, and he personally is pressing for a new building program as soon as possible.

"We are looking for something better suited to Canada's needs," said the local Liberal MP, who is a member of the Commons defence committee.

"Quite obviously there is going to be a shipbuilding program because we are all very much concerned about the need for employment in our shipyards, and I, as member for Victoria, am particularly concerned."

'THING OF FUTURE'
Mr. Groos said the government is not sure what it will build but the matter is under active investigation.

"But personally I hope they are going to recognize the field of nuclear propulsion. This is the thing of the future."

Mr. Groos leaves Victoria on Tuesday for Paris, where he will head Canada's military delegation to a NATO parliamentary conference.

On Nov. 8 he will join other members of the defence committee for a two-week tour of European military bases. The committee will visit France, Britain and Germany, returning to Canada Nov. 22.

Outside Study Asked On Hospital Services

Public Entitled To Know—Adams

A complete impartial study by outside experts of B.C.'s hospital services was proposed today by Victoria's outspoken Dr. R. E. Adams.

Dr. Adams last week triggered a storm of controversy when he charged that too many babies are dying in B.C. hospitals.

He said the hospitals are harassed by lack of government aid.

Today he joined R. H. Proctor, president of the B.C. Hospital Association, in calling for a province-wide continuing study of infant mortality.

"This is the highest mortality rate of any time of life—about 3 per cent," Dr. Adams said.

There are ways to improve maternity care which have been successful elsewhere, but not tried in B.C., he said.

"They are being done with amazing results. I can't think of anything more worthwhile."

NO SATISFACTION

"But we need just as greatly as impartial study of B.C. hospitals done by outside experts. The public cannot be satisfied until this is done," Dr. Adams said.

Dr. Adams suggested the study could be undertaken by such groups as the Canadian or U.S. Hospital Associations, or the Health Information Foundation, with experts of international repute.

He said the B.C. public is entitled to know just where hospital care stands in the province, and to know what value it is getting for its health dollar.

Dr. Adams is medical director of St. Joseph's Hospital.

It was his report last week that B.C. is lagging in many areas of hospital progress that sparked a sharp exchange with Health Minister—Eric Martin.

NO COMMENT

Mr. Martin said he would investigate the medical profession for possible neglect in baby deaths.

Dr. Adams said he would not comment on Mr. Martin's fiery statements.

"The minister will want to be responsible for his own statements," he said.

Mr. Martin said today that his deputy hospital insurance minister, Donald M. Cox, was starting "a routine check" on Dr. Adams' statements. He denied that he had threatened the medical profession.

Mr. Cox said he would start by reviewing Dr. Adams' report, a comprehensive study presented to the B.C. Hospital Association.

TWO ISSUES

Dr. Adams said there are two central issues: the need to improve care of new-born infants, and the overall need to maintain the highest possible hospital standards generally.

Six So Far With Three Days To Go

Danger sizzled, jumped and exploded through the city at the weekend.

And six times it struck children who were playing with it.

The danger—firecrackers.

A firecracker exploded in one boy's trousers pocket and scorched his thigh.

One sizzled under the foot of an 11-year-old girl, burned through the soles of her running shoes and inflicted painful burns.

In another accident a firecracker exploded close to a boy's face and he had to be treated in hospital for the injury.

A girl was burned on the ankle by another youngster who threw a cracker wildly as it fizzled.

The two worst incidents involved an 11-year-old boy and an 11-year-old girl.

EYES INJURED

Jimmy Caldwell, 426 Montreal, was playing with several others of his age when someone threw a cracker that exploded near his eye. He will be in hospital for several days until the extent of his injuries is determined.

And Geir Dyddal, 908 Cloverdale, was burned in her left eye by an exploding firecracker. She too has been detained in hospital where she is reported in good condition.

Police received numerous calls from angry householders about crackers exploding late at night.

Vandals threw them in hallways of apartment buildings, scorching panelling and marking hall mats.

Victorians can expect more of this until Thursday when, hopefully, the last firecracker will be exploded and the stores will stop selling them.

Welfare Failure Charged In Aid for Fire Victims

DISASTER PARLEY

The Community Welfare Council will hold an executive meeting soon to discuss disaster action in future emergencies.

Council president Dr. Roy E. Watson said today he will recommend to executives that representatives of all Greater Victoria welfare agencies be invited.

The result may be a central referral bureau directing people in need to the appropriate agency.

He said the duty officer had been extremely busy on other cases.

"She was almost overloaded with work, but it was wrong to accept Times information that the family was being cared for as meaning they needed no further help."

"We should definitely have investigated."

United Appeal, but there's been a breakdown somewhere."

Contacted this morning, Dr. Banks said that he had been advised Saturday by the three appeal agencies that they had been prepared to fill the needs of the Clark family.

However, he said, St. Vincent de Paul had actually been the only agency to contact the family.

He said he would ensure the society keeps in close contact with the Clarks from today. Family and Children's Service executive director Gordon Wright said that when the Times called Saturday to ask what was being done for the Clarks, "there is no question about it—we should have investigated."

He said the duty officer had been extremely busy on other cases.

Auction Block Deadline Looms For Tax-Dawdlers

Total of 74 properties in the city—including a retail lumber firm and a bowling alley—will be auctioned for taxes next week unless arrears are paid up.

City tax collector Alfred Joyce today said the annual tax sale was unusually large. "I expect that most of them, as in past years, will actually be saved from the block by last-minute payment of the arrears," he said.

All the properties have three years' taxes owing and owners have been warned they will be sold Monday at 10 a.m. in city council chambers unless paid up.

Bidders must put up at least the amount of the arrears. Even if sold, the properties may be returned to original owners if they pay the purchase price and interest to the buyers within one year of the auction.

Topics of Day

Several local magicians visited Vancouver recently for the 21st anniversary dinner and magic show of the Vancouver Magic Circle.

Visiting from Victoria were Mr. and Mrs. Art Curtis, Mr. and Mrs. Lon Chaney, Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Crookford, and Owen Fowler.

Centennial United Church is celebrating its 77th anniversary with a turkey dinner in the church hall at 5:30 p.m. today.

It will be followed with a concert by Louise Porter, soprano; Stanley Martin, baritone; and Barbara Ann Court, violinist.

St. Alban's 50-Up Club will meet in St. Alban's parish hall, 1468 Ryan Street, Thursday afternoon at 2.

Raymond Fisher, 2711 Claude Road, was fined $250 when he pleaded guilty in city magistrate's court today to impaired driving.

The accused drove into the rear of a car stopped for a red light on Douglas at Discovery. The impact forced the front car into the rear of another vehicle ahead of it.

Police evidence was that Fisher was almost incoherent in his speech and had to hold on to his car to stand.

Greater Victoria school board meets Friday to go over the final draft of its brief to Education Minister Leslie Peterson in support of an adult education centre here.

Trustees will also set a date for the formal presentation of the 10-page document. It is a consolidation of arguments compiled during the last seven months in favor of an academic/vocational institution under control of the board of trustees.

A recent crackdown on drug peddling by RCMP in Vancouver appears to have curbed supplies to addicts in Victoria who are resorting to theft to satisfy their drug demands.

A doctor's bag containing drugs was stolen from a locked car Friday night. It contained morphine and demerol and a syringe. The bag belonged to Dr. J. W. E. Hunt, 833 Foul Bay Road.

Other items in the bag were jettisoned by the thief and found later, but the drugs have not been recovered.

Several Saanich druggists have reported to police that suspected addicts have been trying to obtain pills from them.

A drug store in Victoria was burgled a week ago and a large quantity of drugs were stolen from it.

The United Appeal fund stands today at $215,186. The amount is 53.3 per cent of the $400,000 target. Crew members of HMCS Skeena donated $500 during the weekend.

Saanich police suspect that juveniles were responsible for a break-in at Cloverdale School, over the weekend.

Entry was made through open windows into an extension being built on the school. Nothing is reported missing but about $40 worth of damage was done, mainly to doors.

A driver who sideswiped a car on Douglas at Yates Saturday afternoon and then kept on going was fined $100 in magistrate's court today for failing to remain.

Paul Schroeder, 352 Gorge, was also fined $45 for careless driving. The accused telephoned police an hour after the accident and admitted being the driver of the hit-and-run vehicle.

Schroeder's licence was also suspended.

A Victoria man rolled his brand new car and totally wrecked it on the Trans Canada Highway Saturday night but escaped without serious injury.

William Jackson is reported today to be in good condition in King's Daughters' Hospital in Duncan.

He was driving north about four miles north of Duncan near Somenos Road in his small foreign-made car when it left the road. The car rolled three times before coming to a stop in a ditch. Damage was estimated at $2,500.

NUISANCE

'Slothful' Youth Put On Probation

Garth Wood, 2931 Dean, was told by Magistrate William Oster last Thursday that he slept too late.

Then on Friday he didn't show up to enter into a bond—he overslept.

Wood had been given a suspended sentence for being a common nuisance. He removed a red warning lamp from a street construction site.

On Saturday, when Wood did appear, the magistrate described him as "the most slothful person I've ever encountered."

Magistrate Oster remanded Wood in custody over the weekend while he reconsidered the suspended sentence.

This morning the magistrate decided to put Wood on probation for four months.

He had the youth enter into a $250 bond there and then without any more delay.

Gun Exhibition Fast on the Draw

TWO EXHIBITS at first Victoria gun show Sunday were 1902 Luger carbine designed for use by German Kaiser and Colt derringer .41 calibre 1885 gambler's gun. Owner Gary Abbott has collected arms for 12 years. (Times Photo).

The guns were in town Sunday—fast and slow, big, little, old and new.

It was Victoria's first annual gun show, and it drew a good crowd. About 800 weapons and related items were on display at the Knights of Pythias Hall on Cormorant Street.

The Vancouver Island Arms Collectors' Association was formed in 1961 after eight years of informal meetings.

There are 28 members on the Island, and they turned out Sunday with weapons ranging from the 1600s to the present day.

President Hugh Lyle, 115 Moss Street, said the response to the display was so great that it will become an annual event.

Tables in the hall were crammed with weapons, and included seven tables carrying exhibits of five members of the B.C. association in Vancouver.

Oldest weapon on display was a pistol from the period of William of Orange (1650-1702). The pistol belongs to Mr. Lyle.

Forty other miners have been given up for lost. Another 79 escaped within three hours of the accident and seven others were brought out later.

Heavy Damage Forces Return

By PETE LOUDON

A howling gale battered a private yacht off Victoria Sunday, threatening the lives of her amateur crew and 34 University of Washington students.

The 199-ton Seattle yacht Aquilo was forced back to harbor here, her superstructure splintered, most of her passengers sick and wallowing in water that poured through her hatches.

The ship's piano was smashed, the fridge and galley range toppled.

Her forward bulwarks were smashed to matchwood, her bow canopy torn partly away.

Panes of glass were smashed, rigging tore loose and trailed overboard. Below decks she was sodden.

Refrigerator Wedged Across Bow

"The piano fell over and smashed, the stove and fridge broke loose. The fridge wedged across a bow but he was so sick he didn't notice."

Most of us were sick," they said. "But everyone left the cabins and came to the upper deck."

"There were hundreds of life jackets, but no one wanted to be the first to wear one and cause a panic," they added.

Had they taken to the two small boats, they might have had difficulty. Only one of them was rigged for launching this morning. The lines were gone from the davits on the other.

Professor Campbell said: "Solid water was coming over the bow."

"We were plunging up and down an easy 25 feet."

"The water flowed along the promenade deck a foot and a half deep."

"Tremendous masses of water were hitting the glass on the pilothouse. I am surprised they didn't shatter."

The near tragedy was a culmination of small delaying events, including the loss of a suitcase alongside, while Aquilo still lay alongside the Belleville St. CPR wharf here.

Aquilo came here Saturday. She is becoming a familiar sight here since Prof. Campbell bought her and began her restoration recently.

Last week some of his students asked him to bring their rugby team here.

The team, coaches and a group of girls came here with the professor and his three-man crew, all non-professionals.

Sunday night they hoped to her up with a budget so limited he couldn't afford hull insurance — premiums $3,500 a year.

Dream Fulfilled for Professor

She was laid down and launched at Boston, Mass., 62 years ago, 161 feet long, 199 tons. Once owned by B. T. Rogers, the sugar king, she once made her way around the Horn. She delivered Victoria-based soldiers to Cape Lazo, near Comox, in the First World War.

The professor bought her to fulfill a dream. Being one ton less than 200, a master's papers aren't required. He patched up the hull with a budget so limited he couldn't afford hull insurance — premiums $3,500 a year.

China Admits Still Long Way Off From Testing First Atomic Bomb

TOKYO (AP)—Red China's Foreign Minister Chen Yi was quoted today as saying it will be "several years" before his country can test an atomic bomb.

Kyodo news service said the Chinese vice premier made this statement in Peking to visiting Japanese newspaper men.

Chen was reported to have said that the delay in testing was due to the backward state of China's industrial base and that it will be some time before it can mass produce atomic weapons.

But he emphasized the Chinese Communist government has every intention of acquiring nuclear power, because without it China would remain a second or third-class nation.

He said China is close to resolution of the problems of atomic weapon production.

China's objective is, he added, to be equipped with atom bombs, missiles and supersonic weapons "within a few years."

He noted that the Russians had taunted China on wanting to produce expensive nuclear weapons when it didn't have enough trousers to go round.

Chen added that even if China had to go without trousers, it must have modern weapons.

FUMES KILL 3 CREWMEN ON TANKER

PORT STANLEY, Ont. (CP)—Three Italian seamen were killed by fumes aboard an oil tanker early today, two of them as they tried to rescue their shipmate.

Their bodies were found by crew members wearing oxygen masks, who entered a coffer dam between two holds on the tanker East River to search for them.

Dead are boatswain Naso Antonino, about 60, chief fireman Gilberto Ciro, 45, and fireman Ederi Giuseppe, 25.

Private Schemes Not Hurt

OTTAWA (CP)—Health Minister LaMarsh said today the government hopes to proceed with the Canada Pension Plan at this session of Parliament or, if that proves impossible, "at the beginning of the year — at the next session."

She criticized newspaper stories and "completely baseless" headlines to the effect that the plan, based on equal contributions from employee and employers, will be shelved.

"Let there be no mistake about it—this is a basic promise of this Liberal administration," she told a meeting of the National Liberal Women's Federation.

Miss LaMarsh said she hoped that now that Quebec has "opted out" of the federal scheme, Ontario will decide that the compulsory pension legislation it adopted last year—but has not yet enacted—will be made voluntary so that the Canada Pension Plan can be applied all across the country.

'SAME PEOPLE'

Hitting back at the trust and insurance companies that have opposed the plan, Miss LaMarsh said "the same people have spoken out against every social advance in this country," the last occasion being the federal-provincial program of hospital insurance.

"This is not a party of special interests," she said. "It will not be impeded by those who have special interests."

The minister said those operating private pension plans—which left 72 per cent of the labor force, including agricultural workers, uncovered—need not fear for their business in the future.

The experience in every other country that has adopted such legislation is that their business has increased, she said.

U.S. Still Aiming For Moon

WASHINGTON (AP)—It's full speed ahead for the U.S. program to land a man on the moon in this decade.

That's the way American space officials greeted the news from Moscow that Soviet Premier Khrushchev apparently has pulled his country out of any moon race.

Senator Clinton P. Anderson, chairman of the Senate space committee, agreed. "First of all, I do not believe we should develop our space programs on the basis of the press statements of Mr. Khrushchev," the New Mexico Democrat told The Associated Press.

However, there were signs elsewhere that the Russian leader's move may provide ammunition for American critics of heavy space spending.

In an interview Saturday night in Moscow with touring journalists, Khrushchev declared:

"At present we are not planning manned-moon flights..."

"I have read a report to the effect that the Americans want to land a man on the moon by 1970. Well, I wish them success. And we shall watch how they fly there, how they come to earth, or rather come to moon, and this is the main thing."

Another angle, if this moon travel, of course, w'd be 't' make sure th' Astronauts, International Union or some-thin' didn't call a strike an' leave y' stranded up there.

Mister Douglas-Horne won't know whether t' hew t' th' line, or hoe to it.

Th' Appeal. Remember? It's united.
